Program Overview

Socrates; Julius Caesar; Gladiators; The Olympic Games; Cleopatra; The Sphinx...

A student in the Classical Studies (a.k.a. Classics) department will enter the world of the ancient Mediterranean. We focus especially on the civilizations of Greece and Rome and offer courses in their literature, mythology, history, culture, art, and archaeology. Students have the opportunity to learn Latin (the language of Roman emperors and Christian popes) and Greek (the language of philosophy, tragedy, and the New Testament). The courses offered by the faculty of the Classics department are also supplemented by related courses in the departments of Philosophy, Religion, Society & Culture, and the Liberal Arts program. Many of our classes do not have prerequisites and thus we welcome students from all disciplines. In this regard, most of the 200-level courses are suitable for students in their first year. All you need are interest and enthusiasm to begin your journey into the Classics.

Programs

List of Courses

- CLA 100 Food, Community and Culture in the Greek and Roman World 3-3-0
The aim of this course is to introduce students to the cultures of ancient Greece and Rome. We will explore language, literature, art, religion, myth, history, politics, geography, science, and technology as we investigate the many aspects of food production and consumption, from cannibalism in Greek tragedy to the best way to stuff a dormouse. At the end of the course, we will cook a meal and celebrate the Classical world.
- CLA 101 Travellers, Tourists, and Foreign Wars: Getting About in the Ancient Mediterranean World 3-3-0
Odysseus' epic voyage home from the Trojan War; the Greek colonization of brave new worlds; the spice trade routes; the long marches of Roman soldiers; ancient maps for adventurous tourists: these and other Classical examples of travel will introduce students to the fascinating world of the ancient Mediterranean. At the end of the course, we will hold a colourful and flavourful Classical Food Fair to celebrate ancient exotic vacation destinations.
- CLA 102 Ancient Greece: History and Culture 3-3-0
The alphabet; the Olympic Games; philosophy; democracy; tragedy and comedy; history: was there anything the Greeks didn't invent? This course introduces students to the cultural, intellectual, political and literary achievements of the ancient Greeks.
- CLA 110 The Art and Archaeology of Ancient Egypt 3-3-0
A survey of the art and architecture of ancient Egypt, from the Pyramids to the Valley of the Kings, and an introduction to the archaeological discoveries made in Egypt in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries.
- CLA 112 / RSC 120 Ancient Greek Mythology 3-3-0
The origin and development of Greek mythology, and the importance of myths in understanding ancient literature and religion: theories of myth, cult and ritual, mystery religions, the epic tradition. Greek sources are read in translation.
- CLA 113 Classical Mythology: The Greek Influence on Rome 3-3-0
Myth and tragedy, myth and history, lyric poetry, Roman mythology. Greek and Latin sources are read in translation.
- CLA 120 An Introduction to Classical Archaeology 3-3-0
A survey of the history of classical archaeology from the discoveries of Schliemann at Troy and Evans at the Palace of Knossos to a study of the techniques of modern field archaeology.
- CLA 130 Sports and Games in Ancient Greece and Rome 3-3-0
The Olympic Games in ancient Greece and the chariot races in Rome's Circus Maximus allowed athletes to compete and spectators to enjoy themselves under the hot Mediterranean sun. Athletic training was useful in preparing men for war, but women also trained and competed in sports events. People of the ancient past liked to amuse themselves just as we do today, but dramatic festivals and even gladiatorial combat had religious origins. In this course we will use the sporting and recreational activities of the Greeks and Romans and their Mediterranean neighbours as a lens to reveal aspects of these ancient societies.
- CLA 150 The Ancient World in Film and Television 3-3-0
Movies and television have shaped our ideas about Greek and Roman myth, history and civilization. In this course we will study "sword and sandal" films and television as popular art forms and their relation to the ancient literary and visual sources.
- CLA 160 Rome: The Republic 3-3-0
The social, political and cultural events of the Roman Republic, including the exploits of Hannibal, Julius Caesar, Cleopatra, and others.
- CLA 170 Greek and Latin Terminology for Medicine and the Life Sciences 3-3-0
This course teaches the Latin and Greek roots of scientific terminology in order to help students understand the technical vocabulary of medicine, biology, and other life sciences. Better understanding of the scientific terms also improves students ability to communicate with specialists and with the general public.

- CLA 201 / HIS 201 Ancient Slavery and its Legacy 3-3-0
Slavery was ubiquitous in ancient Greece and Rome due largely to frequent warfare. This course will examine the ways that the institution of slavery influenced societal and class structures, the economies, and the moral attitudes of ancient Greek and Roman societies. We will also examine how ancient slavery influenced modern attitudes around slavery, and the differences between ancient and modern slavery.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 202 The Classical Influence on Shakespeare 3-3-0
Despite Ben Jonson's claim that Shakespeare had "small Latine and lesse Greeke" the bard had a strong background in the Classics. The Greek biographer Plutarch, the Roman poet Ovid, and the Roman comic playwright Plautus are among the Classical sources that profoundly influenced his plays and poems. Students will read select works of Shakespeare alongside their Classical influences (read in English translation).
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 204 / RSC 204 Women in Religion 3-3-0
An investigation of the religious lives of early pagan, Jewish, and Christian women in the context of the Greco-Roman world. Literary and epigraphical sources from the fourth century BCE to the third century CE are analyzed in order to determine women's roles, rites and practices, with special attention to constructions of gender in the Graeco-Roman world.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 205 Greek Art and Architecture 3-3-0
Western art and architecture begin in ancient Greece. From miniature vases to monumental statues of ivory and gold, we will explore the creations of potters and painters, sculptors and architects, and study Greek art from the Bronze age to the time of Alexander the Great.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 206 / RSC 203 Early Christian Art and Architecture 3-3-0
This course examines the ways in which the Christians adapted elements from Greek, Roman, and Near Eastern art and architecture to their religious beliefs and requirements and also studies the development of this new Christian art in the Byzantine Empire. Major topics include: Catacomb art, early Christian and Byzantine architecture, mosaic and painting, manuscript illumination, textiles and decorative arts.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 207 Early Roman Art 3-3-0
In this course we will begin with a study of the colourful wall paintings of Etruscan tombs, where men and women drink and dance, and panthers and lions guard the dead. Once rulers of Rome, the Etruscans and their art declined as the Roman Republic grew powerful. We will examine how the Romans developed an innovative art and architecture which expressed the values of their society.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 208 Art and Architecture of Imperial Rome 3-3-0
A survey of Roman art and architecture from the first century CE to the fourth century CE. The course examines the use of art as propaganda and the tension between tradition and innovation in Roman Art.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 217 The Ancient Epic 3-3-0
This course introduces students to the best epic poetry of the Greeks and Romans (poetry will be read in English translation). Sources to be studied may include the Iliad, Odyssey, Argonautica, Aeneid, and Metamorphoses.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).
- CLA 219 Greek Tragic Theatre 3-3-0
The famous tragic dramas of Classical Athens used well-known Greek mythological stories to illustrate powerful moral and political arguments. This course will study some of the plays of the great Athenian tragedians Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides. Plays will be read in English translation.
Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 223 /POL 223 Democracy in the Greek and Roman World 3-3-0

The idea of government by the people is highly valued today, but it was first given the name of “demokratia” (democracy) in ancient Greece. The most famous example in Greece is Classical Athens, but democratic elements appeared in many other ancient states, including republican Rome. The course will examine popular participation in Athens, Rome, and various other ancient societies: how it began, who could participate, who was left out, and what ancient writers thought of it.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 229 War and Society in the Greek and Roman World 3-3-0

War, omnipresent in the ancient Mediterranean, will be used to reveal socio-economic, religious, and cultural aspects of ancient Greek and Roman societies. Was war waged for economic motives (plunder, booty, supply in slaves, exploitation of local resources...)? Were there sacred wars? How did war affect art and architecture? How did encounters with other societies change the perception of war and bring about an evolution in warfare? How was war declared? What is known of diplomacy, peace-talks and treaties between allies or former enemies? This course is not about wars but about the impacts war had on society and how society changed the ways to wage war.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 236 /RSC 236 Death and Dying in the Ancient World 3-3-0

This course explores the myths, rituals and beliefs associated with death and dying in antiquity. Topics to be covered include myths associated with the afterlife; books of the dead; magic and death rituals; and understandings of heaven, hell and judgement.

Prerequisite: RSC 100 or RSC 101 or permission of instructor

Open to first-year students.

CLA 238 Greece: Land of the Gods 3-3-0

This course examines the sacred art and architecture of ancient Greece from Mycenae to Byzantium on site in Greece, and is offered in the Spring or Summer semester. After preliminary lectures on campus, students will spend two weeks traveling to the major sacred sites of mainland Greece. American students on US Federal aid cannot enroll in this course for credit.

Open to first-year students. Instructor's permission required.

Not open to students with credits in RSC238.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 240 Signs of the Past: Archaeological Interpretation 3-3-0

Students will study the techniques and methodology of archaeology. Topics include the use of artifacts in creating chronologies and theories, preservation and conservation of sites, ethical questions and problems relating to archaeological excavation.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 242/HIS 240 History and Heritage 3-3-0

This course, taught by the History and Global Studies Department, is designed to introduce students to the practice and presentation of history in public institutions and spaces, such as museums, archives and historic sites. It will explore practical applications of history, the history vs heritage debates and the theoretical underpinnings of public history including the use and creation of memory, ideas of performativity and voice, and identity studies, and analytical techniques.

CLA 250 Sex and Gender in the Greek and Roman World 3-3-0

This course will look at how ideas about sexuality and gender roles affected people's lives in ancient Greece and Rome. Topics to be examined will include marriage and divorce, conception and contraception, masculine and feminine ideals, homosexuality, transgender and intersex people, gender and the law, sex and social class, the effects of gender on religious expression, private versus public life, what ancient doctors knew about sex, and how to use magic to get a lover.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 261 Rome: The Emperors 3-3-0

A survey of the social and political history of imperial Rome after the fall of the republic. Topics to be covered include Roman military and engineering feats, Rome's neighbours and rivals, the rise of Christianity, Roman private lives, and the often very peculiar habits of emperors.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites).

CLA 271 /PHI 271 Philosophy of Socrates & Plato 3-3-0

A study of the character and teaching of Socrates as portrayed in Plato's early and middle dialogues. Emphasis will be on theory of education.

CLA 272 /PHI 272 Philosophy of Aristotle 3-3-0

A study of selected works of Aristotle with special emphasis on logic, metaphysics, and the concept of substance.

CLA 280 /RSC 280 Roman Religion 3-3-0

This course examines the religion of the ancient Roman people, following the traditions and changes from the 8th century BCE to the Imperial period. Roman religion was very different from the monotheistic religions with which many of us are familiar today, but it was also significantly different from the mythology of the ancient Greeks, despite the Romans' willingness to absorb and adapt the Greek myths. Topics to be studied in this course will include the Roman concept of divinity, beliefs about the dead, religious and cult ritual, senatorial and imperial control of religion, emperor worship, divination and prophecy, festivals, and Roman responses to the introduction of foreign religions.

Suitable for students at all levels (no prerequisites)

CLA 300 /HIS 322 Elephants, Sparrows, Griffins, and More: Animals in Ancient Greece and Rome 3-3-0

This seminar course will examine the role of animals in ancient Greek and Roman society, covering the use of animals for military or agricultural work, the keeping of animals as beloved pets, the role of birds and sacrificial animals in appeasing the gods and/or finding out what the gods wanted, animals hunted in the wild and in the arena, animal automata, and ancient scientific and philosophical understanding about animals. We will read primary sources (in translation) as well as modern scholarship.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 303 / LIB 303 /RSC 303 On the Road Again: Pilgrimage in Theory and Practice 3-3-0

This course will examine pilgrimage as embodied experience, with a special focus on contemporary pilgrimage. Cross-cultural approaches and historical context will be key to understanding the current fascination with walking as transformative practice. Theories of identity, community, and belonging will also be discussed. Students will have an opportunity to participate in a short pilgrimage

CLA 309 Study Abroad in the Mediterranean 6-6-0

While studying abroad, students will examine the societies that occupied the ancient Mediterranean world. Through visits to archaeological sites, museums, and/or work on archaeological field projects, they will study the societies' religious and mortuary practices, economy, transportation routes, politics, and public and private life. Moreover, students will explore how these patterns evolved throughout time in response to landscape and environmental change that impacted movement, access, settlement occupation, and land use.

American students on US Federal aid cannot enrol in this course for credit.

Instructor's permission required

CLA 321 /HIS 321 Laws and Outlaws in Ancient Rome 3-3-0

This seminar course will focus on Roman law and order, and on those who broke the law or challenged Roman hegemony. A series of case studies will cover some of the well-known villains of Roman history, as well as those who perpetrated private crimes. We will study Rome's response to threats to public order, how the city of Rome was policed, and which elements of Roman society were most likely to become victims of crime. Readings will include ancient sources in translation (legal, literary, and epigraphical texts) as well as modern scholarship.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 325 The Use and Abuse of Classics 3-3-0

The influence of ancient Greece and Rome on Western culture has been powerful and enduring, but not always for the best reasons. This course will examine how a better understanding of the Classical world can help us reject some of the modern justifications for white supremacy and gender-based violence that endure today.

CLA 332 /RSC 332 Magic and Divination in the Ancient Near East 3-3-0

Since the 19th century, magic and divination have been subjects of great scholarly interest. This seminar course will examine how these phenomena were manifested in the region of what is today called the Middle East. We will also look at the supposed polemic against magic and divination in the Hebrew Bible (Old Testament), where calling someone a magician or diviner was a strategy for social control and definition, serving as an element in the construction of views about legitimate and illegitimate religious authority.

CLA 335/

RSC 335 Sacred Space in the Ancient World 3-3-0
How did the ancients experience their surroundings? How did their conceptions of space and place affect their relationships with their deities, their ancestors, and each other? From lofty temples to humble shrines, sacred mountains to grottoes, we will explore the intimate connection between sacred places and the development of ancient identity. Archaeological and literary data, as well as modern theories of space and place, will be examined.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 336 Greeks, Romans, and Others 3-3-0
“Hoi barbaroi” (“barbarians”) was what the ancient Greeks called non-Greek foreigners, which originally included the Romans until the latter conquered Greece, at which point the term was redefined to mean neither Greek nor Roman. This seminar course will examine the ancient evidence for the peoples who came into contact with the Greeks and Romans. We will examine the ways in which Greek and Roman ethnocentrism and imperialism influenced their attitudes about foreigners, and how ancient prejudices relate to modern racism.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 350/

RSC 350 The Goddess: History, Cult and Myth 3-3-0
From Diana’s bow to Athena’s shield, from the fearsome wail of the Erinyes to the dulcet tones of the Muses, the sacred feminine in all its manifestations has fueled the imagination. How we in the modern world perceive the female divine, however, also reflects our own changing attitudes towards women. In this seminar course, we will examine the sacred feminine in art, archaeology, and literature, from Paleolithic Europe to contemporary America, with a view to understanding the construction of tropes of femininity both in ancient cultures and our own. Topics may include Near Eastern and Graeco-Roman goddesses, Hindu goddesses, gendered archaeology, the virgin Mary, modern goddess movements, and more!

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

PHI 200 /

CLA 273 Ancient Philosophy 3-3-0
Exploration of key themes and problems in ancient Greek philosophy, including the Pre-Socratic and Hellenistic philosophers, but with special emphasis on the thought of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle. Ancient philosophers inaugurated our scientific and philosophical tradition, and this course will thus address vital themes like existence of pure ideas of the Good, the Beautiful and the Just, the nature of a human longing to fulfill or realize our nature, as well as the character of eros, friendship and dialogue (logos).

CLA 360 Topics in Ancient History 3-3-0
This seminar course will examine selected topics and problems in ancient history and historiography. Sources will be read in translation.

Prerequisites: At least one Classical Studies course or permission of the instructor

CLA 365 Topics in Classical Art and Archaeology 3-3-0
This seminar course will explore topics and problems in Classical Art and Archaeology. Possible topics include: Roman provincial art and archaeology; Greek vase painting; gender and sexuality in ancient art; the archaeology of Periclean Athens; Aegean Bronze Age archaeology; Classical relief sculpture.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 380 Topics in Greek and Roman Drama 3-3-0
This seminar course will concentrate on the nature of ancient drama, and will involve discussion of a selection of tragedies and/or comedies from the ancient Greek and Roman world.

Prerequisites: At least two Classics courses or permission of the instructor.

CLA 400 Honours Thesis Preparation 3-3-0
The student will work with faculty advisors and complete a proposal, outline and bibliography and give an oral research progress report. Students must achieve a 70% or higher in order to register in CLA 401.

CLA 401 Honours Thesis 3-3-0
The student will continue to work with faculty advisors, complete a written thesis, and give a public presentation of the year’s research.

Prerequisite: CLA 400

Independent Studies

The department offers opportunities to study independently for senior students who wish to pursue in-depth exploration of their research interests, under the direction of faculty members. Independent studies are available in all areas covered by the department, including upper-level or advanced Classical language study (Greek and Latin), history, and archaeology. Students wishing to undertake an independent study must secure permission of the instructor.

M.A. (OISE), Ph.D. (Toronto)

Assistant Professor, Musical Theatre program

Program Overview

The Department of Drama offers a program balanced between practical theatre and academic study of dramatic literature and theatre history. Our aim is to permit undergraduates to explore the subject as a liberal arts discipline and prepare them for graduate, professional, and conservatory schools.

The Department offers Major and Honours programs designed to expose students to all facets of theatre practice and study as well as provide them with the flexibility to orient their program towards a particular field of study: History and theatre studies, Performance (acting, directing, and playwriting), and Production (technical, stage management, and design).

By the end of their final year, students will have had many opportunities to work on the Department's season of productions in the Studio Theatre and Centennial Theatre (including at least three productions in the Studio, one mainstage production in Centennial during the second semester, and student-run festivals of original work). A number of students will also have the opportunity to become Theatre Assistants for Centennial Theatre.
