Program Overview

The Department of Sociology provides students with theoretical and methodological tools and substantive insights which can assist them in understanding social life, social organization, and action. The program is designed to provide students with a broad intellectual and sociological background which will help prepare them for a variety of careers and for advanced study at graduate school. The small size of our program and the dedication of our faculty allow us to provide personal attention to students and access to faculty. Through required courses and a study concentration option, students are given substantial flexibility in meeting individual intellectual pursuits and preparation for satisfying employment after university. We offer a minor, major, or honours in Sociology as well as a concentration in Criminology, Law and Social Policy (see below). Students are encouraged to participate in the Experiential Learning program which is linked to their academic field of studies and involves course work and placement in an organization.

The subject matter of our courses ranges widely from theoretical to applied study and our professors employ diverse pedagogies to facilitate student learning. The department has particular strengths of faculty expertise in the areas of Indigenous-Settler relations, criminology, theory, policy, health and family, digital communication technology, and gender and diversity studies.

Careers in Sociology

Recent graduates of the program have embarked on many careers including: education; media, communications, public relations and journalism; policing and corrections; health, human and social services; a wide variety of careers in both the private and public sector, management and business; graduate degrees in Sociology, and related disciplines and in law and other professional schools. To view a more comprehensive list of career options and for more information, please consult Sociology Department's website.

Sociology Major (with or without concentration):

To ensure smooth progress through the program, all Sociology Majors should complete the following courses within their first two years:

Year 1

Fall:	SOC 101 Introduction to Sociology, ILT 104 Information retrieval and Evaluation Skills for the Social Sciences. Electives in sociology or any other program.
Winter:	SOC 102 Quebec Society I, SOC 110 Research Methodology. Electives in sociology or any other program.

Year 2

Fall:	SOC 211 Quantitative Methodology and Research Design in the Social Sciences and SOC 221 Modern Sociological Theory I. Electives in sociology or any other program.
Winter:	SOC 222 Modern Sociological Theory II. Electives in sociology or any other program.

During their first two years of study, students should also fulfill their “Divisional Requirement” by completing a 3-credit course from the Faculty of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

Sociology Major: Criminology, Law and Social Policy Concentration

Students pursuing a Sociology Major with a Criminology, Law and Social Policy Concentration should follow the same two-year plan as the Sociology Major, but should also take SOC 208 Criminology, SOC Deviance I, and SOC 295 Social Inequality within their first two years. SOC 307 Sociology of Health should be taken in students’ second or third year of study.

Sociology Honours

The Honours program is reserved for students who have demonstrated academic excellence within their first two years of study. Academic Excellence is defined as possessing an overall average of at least 75% with specific success within the required theory and methods courses. At the end of year two, the chair or tenured faculty will offer select students a position within the Honours program. Alternatively, students who meet the aforementioned criteria can petition the chair for acceptance into the program.

Students interested in pursuing a post-graduate degree (Masters or professional degree) should give the Honours program serious consideration. Since the program includes additional course requirements with lower-level prerequisites, students should ensure they have completed the Major’s core requirements by the end of year two. This is particularly important for students coming from CEGEP who typically complete their B.A.s within three years.

Sociology Minor

The Sociology Minor is a highly flexible program for those students wanting to add sociology to their degree. With only one requirement (SOC 101 Introduction to Sociology), the minor combines a quick foundation in the discipline with an array of options allowing students to pursue their interests.

Criminology Minor

The Criminology Minor is a highly flexible program that contains only two required courses: SOC 101 Introduction to Sociology and SOC 208 Criminology. Students then pick 6 courses of interest from the list of Criminology Law and Social Policy electives which service the Criminology Law and Social Policy Concentration.

Gender, Diversity, and Equity Studies Minor

The Gender, Diversity, and Equity Studies Minor offers numerous courses studying inequality, gender, and feminist thought. The minor contains only one requirement, SOC 129 Sociology of Gender and Society, in addition to 7 other courses on the list of Gender, Diversity, and Equity electives. Courses in this program cannot be offered every year so students should ensure they enroll whenever courses appear on the timetable. Given the sporadic nature of course offerings, student should plan to complete their minors over at least two years.

List of Courses

- SOC 101 Introduction to Sociology 3-3-0
This course introduces the foundations of sociology by examining numerous theoretical and empirical issues/debates. Special emphasis will be placed on understanding “the social” or “society” as a distinct and unique object of scientific analysis. Students are also encouraged to use sociological understandings to “make sense” of their personal lives.
- HIS 102 / SOC 102 Québec Society I 3-3-0
How did Quebec society reach its present state? Topics include the French-Indigenous relationship, religion, the evolution of a market-oriented economy, conflicts between French and English Canada, Quebec’s international relations, and successive waves of industrialization and urbanization. The course will also deal with cultural development and the emergence of multiple social identities including nationalism(s) in Quebec, language politics, inter-culturalism and feminism.
This course is required of all Sociology Minors, Majors, and Honours students.
- SOC 105 Media and Society I 3-3-0
An introduction to the impact of media upon society and the social structuring of contemporary media as industries which produce values and ideology.
- SOC 107 Indigenous and First Nations Peoples in Canada 3-3-0
An introduction to the study of First Nations in Canada.
- SOC 110 Research Methodology 3-3-0
Sociological research will be dealt with in its quantitative and qualitative orientations. Students will be introduced to techniques of conceptualization, hypothesis formulation, and operationalization.
This course is required of all Sociology Majors and Honours students.
- SOC 129 Sociology of Gender and Society 3-3-0
This course critically examines the ways gender informs the social world in which we live. It explores how we experience gender in the world around us; considers how we develop our gendered identities; explores the workings of the institutions that shape our gendered lives, and leads to an understanding the relationship between gender and the social structure.
- SOC 190 Introduction to Postcolonial Study 3-3-0
An introduction to postcolonial theory and sociological issues arising from the cultural and economic conditions left behind by colonizers and the colonized. By looking at events in countries such as India, Nigeria, the Congo and other former colonies we come to understand the challenge of developing theoretical perspectives which grasp the complex influences of colonizer and colonized upon each other.
- SOC 202 Directed Independent Study I 3-3-0
A tutorial course in which the student (normally a major) may pursue his or her interests in a selected area of sociology, under the direction of a member of the Department.
Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor and the Department
- SOC 203 Directed Independent Study II 3-3-0
See SOC 202
Permission of the instructor and the Department
- SOC 204 Experiential Learning in Sociology I 3-3-0
The course integrates a sociology student’s research interests with the opportunity to participate with and explore a community organization or other coordinated social phenomena. A required component is a minimum 30 hours of active participation. A substantive written analysis based partially on the student’s participatory research experience, and partially upon a study of the relevant literature is also required. It is up to the student to get agreement from the appropriate organization representative(s) for participation in the course and to recruit a professor to be their instructor.
- SOC 205 Family I 3-3-0
Changing forms and functions of the family in Western society; growth and decline of the symmetrical family, definitions, theories, marital and sexual roles, and child rearing.
- SOC 207 Sociology of Indigenous / Re-settler Relations 3-3-0
The course examines the sociology of strategies of assimilation and the forms of resistance to these strategies in North America.
- SOC 208 Criminology 3-3-0
A survey of theories of crime and criminality in relation to class, race and gender. Substantive issues will include murder, prostitution, legal and illegal drug use, woman abuse, white collar crime, and organized crime.
- SOC 209 Youth Justice 3-3-0
This course provides an introduction to the youth justice system. It examines the evolution and impact of youth justice philosophy and legislation in Canada and the experience of youth at various stages within the system.
- SOC 211 Quantitative Methodology and Research Design in the Social Sciences 3-3-0
This is an introductory course to quantitative data analysis. The course covers the principles of research design and statistical analyses frequently used in the social sciences. This is an important preparatory course for more advanced courses in quantitative methods.
Prerequisite: SOC 110
- SOC 214 Aging 3-3-0
Aging and the life course perspective. Sociological theories on aging in relation to gender, class, and ethnicity.
- SOC 219 Sociology of the Body 3-3-0
Notions of the body as the cultural representation of our contemporary “embodied” selves will be explored. This course will uncover the strategies of social, political and economic forces as theses problematize the body and seek to control, manipulate, and alter behaviour.
- SOC 221 Modern Sociological Theory I 3-3-0
An introduction to the nature and purpose of sociological theory. Students will learn the foundations of theory (ontology, epistemology, methodology) and social theory’s historical development before examining the work of Emile Durkheim.
Prerequisite: SOC 101
- SOC 222 Modern Sociological Theory II 3-3-0
Building from the ideas established in SOC 221, this course pursues an extensive analysis and critical evaluation of Karl Marx and Max Weber’s respective work.
Prerequisite: SOC 221 or permission of the instructor
- SOC 223 Women and Global Inequalities 3-3-0
This course considers the social location of cis and trans women within political economy and globalization. Understanding women’s diverse lives required attention to public, private and geographic locations.
- SOC 229 Masculinities 3-3-0
This course examines both dominant and variant interpretations of gender with an emphasis on the narratives and proscriptions of masculinity. We consider how proscribed definitions of masculinity impact institutional structures, personal lives, safety, relationships, health and professional opportunities.
- SOC 230 Deviance I 3-3-0
Definitions of deviant behaviour, social roles of deviants and the structure of control.
- SOC 232 Sociology of Criminal Justice 3-3-0
An overview of the criminal justice system from initial contact with the police through to arrest, prosecution, disposition, incarceration, and release to the community. Emphasis is on the role of the police, prosecution, courts, and corrections with a consideration of moving towards alternative approaches to justice.
- SOC 233 Carceral Studies 3-3-0
This course considers diverse carceral space in relation to a socio-political and historical context. Carceral spaces can include prisons, migrant detention centers, refuge camps and residential schools.
- SOC 235 Women and the Penal System 3-3-0
A critical understanding of gender in criminology. Substantive issues will include: Sexual assault and the justice system, women and family law in the courts, domestic violence, gender and murder. Contemporary theories in criminology and their application are examined.
- SOC 245 Racialization and Ethnic Diversity 3-3-0
The purpose of this course is to explore the ethnic and racial diversity of Canada’s plural and multicultural society. It critically assesses justifications of racism and of gendered racialization with knowledge of such processes and other harmful historical constructions.
- SOC 250 Social Movements 3-3-0
Macro-structures of society such as crowds, publics, fads and riots are examined, including evolving collectivities and their subsequent ideological transformations.
- SOC 260 Community 3-3-0
A comparative and historical analysis of rural, urban, and ethnic communities.
- SOC 280 Interpersonal Communication 3-3-0
Human interaction at the macro sociological level. Equality, domination, integration, marginalization, co-operation and conflict will be examined.

SOC 292 Social Policy	3-3-0	SOC 321 Sociology of Technology	3-3-0
