a little history

The Mission Statement

The mission of Bishop’s University is to provide a sound and liberal education primarily at the undergraduate level. The goal is the education of individuals to realize their full potential in their intellectual, spiritual, social, and physical dimensions.

To this end Bishop’s emphasizes excellence in teaching enriched by scholarship and research. Further, the University encourages frequent interaction between students and faculty, participation in non-academic activities, a keen sense of responsibility to others, and openness within, and commitment to, the Quebec, Canadian and international communities.
Be prepared to get...

Purple-fied!
Welcome to Bishop’s University! Get ready for Gaiter Pride. From a history of academic excellence to athletics stardom, there is so much to be proud of. We’ve won numerous competitions and tournaments and had countless great experiences along the way.
As a prospective student, it’s your job to get involved and maintain that mentality. Make a point of wearing as much purple as you can to as many football and basketball games as possible. Paint your face, bring your noisemakers, and be prepared to make a big scene as a Gaiter fan. Whether we’re winning or losing, the Gaiters need your support.
We’re proud that even though we may be small in size, we can still raise the roof at any event. At homecoming games we fill the stands, clad in purple, wearing crazy costumes and funny hats, cheering on the Gaiters.
Visitors are often shocked by the fans alone, with our loud cheers and words of intimidation, heckling and purple paint. At basketball games, when the tension builds, all you can hear is “Let’s Go Gaiters!”
People Purple

"College days will linger ever in our hearts!"

It’s all about spirit with class. There’s the loud section at every game who never find time to sit down and are constantly pouring beer on people below just for kicks. It’s to be expected though, and when you come out to any game, it’s a time to let go, to leave your serious side at home and remember that you’re there to have fun, to support your fellow students and create everlasting memories.
Yee Haw!

It's Rodeo Time!

By John Cherry

This year, Bishops University welcomed one of its largest incoming classes in years. First year students arrived from across Canada and around the world to begin their journey through the Bishop's Experience.

This journey began with a full week packed with informative, educational, and entertaining events. Orientation week at Bishops has a long and entertaining history and this year's version was exceptional in its own rights. Here in Lennoxville, we do things a little differently than at other Canadian universities. Instead of the incoming class (or frosh to some) being divided up by residences they are assigned to groups lead by upper year students.

Orientation week leaders were a select group of eager students who ensured that all frosh got everything they could out of the week.

This year's leaders were: Jon Cherry, John Horn, and Jenn Macdonald. These three fourth year students had lots of surprises in store for all! A Monday afternoon opener of our football team was a definite hit, as was the perennial favorite-Field Day. We all packed some old clothes that we didn't mind getting dirty and layed it all on the line for an afternoon of absolute craziness!
It's all about cowboys and their skivvies
Get ready to rumble, Field Day gets messy!
Field Day!

Orientation Week 2002, for a majority of first year students, was a turning point and may well have been the most exciting week of their lives. The S.R.C.'s lineup of social interactions including a motivational speaker, live music and dancing, a professional comedy show, dancing, a hypnotist, two football games, live entertainment in the Gaiter Cafe, scavenger hunt, and the traditional closing ceremonies was unparalleled. Of course the University had its share of fun to offer as well - academic advising, E.W.P. exams, registration and regular classes, which began mid-week. Add to this an in-depth campus tour, sessions on life skills such as time and stress management, a play with some important messages, and for many, the adjustment to residence life (and Dewey's cuisine), and it is easy to understand why Bishop student's always remember their first week in Lennoxville.

A Rockin' Frosh Week!
Homecoming Review
By D. Deacon

There's no place like home

Have you ever tried to explain what Bishop's is all about to an outsider? It's an experience not easily summed up in a short conversation. But it is something that can be summed in in only one short weekend. There are only three of the fleeting weekends during the year. For you first year students you have successfully survived the first. The other two not-to-be missed weekends are Halloween and Convocation. The weekend foreshadowed by Bishop's administration in the form of a letter, thankfully, went off without a hitch. Early Saturday morning, a quick trip to McDonald's or one of the many kegs and eggs parties was a great way for many to put a layer of solids underneath the soon-to-be consumed fluids. It was then off to the parking lot of Coulter Field to enjoy tailgating, a little electric scooter, getting on TV or taking a bite out of a certain VP's meat helmet. Not many people would have experienced the mind clearing effects of draining a 60 of Jack (when you know him this well you can call him John) between three friends before twelve noon but I'm sure you all have won tailgating memories. The football game was a blur to many but instead of dwelling on their valiant effort let's congratulate the rugby and lacrosse teams.
What is BUCS? BUCS is a student organization with a mission to better the academic and social experience of all students at the Williams School of Business and Economics.

BUCS organized an assortment of social events including the weekly “Happy Hour”, the BUCS Golf Tournament, the Christmas Party, Frosh Week Wine and Cheese and the grad cocktail. BUCS coordinated all the conferences and business games to which we sent our students. They organized a yearly recruitment dinner and invited guest speakers to present. They also offered second-hand textbooks at their semi-annual Book Sale.

Every student enrolled full time in the Williams School of Business and Economics was automatically a member of the commerce society.

Halloween
By Peter Crotchwell

Well, Halloween is lurking right around the corner, and this means one thing: inexperienced frosh, confused as hell, not knowing what to make out of the whole affair. Let’s face it, you don’t know a BU Halloween celebration from your own arse. But it’s not your fault. It’s just inexperience, something that time and exposure will surely cure. Thank God there’s still time.

Ok, lesson one...party supplies. Well I’m not going to say anything here because you already know how to party, but I will pass this rather vague advice down to you.
1) Don’t overindulge, because too much is just not a good idea. Trust me.
2) Stick with your friends. They can help you through some tough times.
3) Have a home base. You might want to go home at some point and your friends don’t really want to spend the whole night wondering if you are still on this planet.
4) Nobody plays golf at night. Therefore, you can enjoy the wide-open spaces without the risk of getting a ball lodged in your skull.(...) And finally, be nice to Student Patrol.

39 BISHOP’S STUDENTS HOMELESS

The facts

- Fire broke out around 8:00 am on Sunday, January 26, 2003 in a top floor apartment at 162 Queen street.
- Thirty-nine Bishop's students living in fifteen apartments were quickly evacuated; only one student was injured and was taken to hospital to be treated for smoke inhalation. He was released from hospital at 3:30 p.m.
- The apartments on the top two floors were completely destroyed leaving the Bishop's students with only the clothes on their back.
- The majority of the students were bused to Bishop’s University at around 11:00 a.m. to contact their parents and to determine their short-term accommodation.

Relief efforts

- Students stayed with friends or in University residences on Sunday night.
- On Monday morning all victims met on campus for breakfast in the Mackinnon Blue Room as relief efforts continued.
- Information was disseminated by University officials on the following:
  - Academic matters
  - Identification (Gaiter cards, bank cards, etc)
  - Availability of counsellors and health professionals
  - Housing vacancies (on campus and in Lennoxville)
  - Insurance claims
  - Emergency loans from the Business Office
  - Red Cross vouchers for clothing ($170) and food ($50)
  - Meal points from the University ($125)
  - Textbooks and school supplies (free from the Bookstore)
  - Clothing (donations from students and community members)
  - Etc.

The Loft

The hot spot on campus
By Jennifer Waslen

Jehoshaphat’s Loft, established in October, 1998, was the SRC owned and operated bar on campus. The benefits of the student-run business were numerous and the rewards of its success were reaped by the entire student body. The concept was to provide an environment on campus in which students could socialize. Students could expect The Loft to be a high energy environment with great music, a dance floor and a good time. “It’s not a pub style environment,” said Loft manager Colin MacDonald, “more of a club-style bar. We want to bring a Montreal feel to Lennoxville.” The bar benefited the student body in numerous capacities. Revenues generated from the operation were pumped back into student services offered through the SRC.
Approximately 25 students were employed by the bar last year, from bartenders to DJ and management. Employees worked together as a team and everyone took an active role in the operation.
Bishop's finest head to Ottawa

By Michael John Mahoney

Things just mysteriously started breaking and getting destroyed whenever team Bishop's year started. Romani was there. Romani also noted the official bishop's anthem of a year ago, deviated somewhat from the traditional school song with beer songs, but never the less boasted a good time and didn't fail us. Romani then mentioned something about poppy cay, this author had no idea what she was talking about.

The vast amount of time and effort required by delegates to coordinate a team for the weekend does not go unnoticed. Already a cohesive unit, 2002 teammate and veterans UBG participant, Steph Chapheau, assured fellow delegates. "You are all good guys." With such words of encouragement, the weekend in our nation's capital will go just fine, assure team co-captain Mike Mahoney and Tracy Gibson who both have high hopes for numerous victories.

"We are confident that we will be great ambassadors for our school," said 2002 participant Jessica Romani, who is known to perform class presentations without wearing any underwear. Romani continued, "Everyone then become scared of us when departed terror. Bishop's did manage to actually walk away with the spirit-crafting hardware. A senior left his mark by literally taking the trophy from the York team and proudly bringing it home to Laurier - where different team members brought the award to classes to adjust the duration of the week.

When asked what strategy Mahoney had in order to obtain the cup, there was only one answer for the Oracle fan club president, "I like penguins and badminton," he said. "These games have nothing but, we do have a secret weapon, the one armed bandit." He is small, quick and has a huge sense for victory."

Nobody contacted from the UBG team would comment on this mysterious one armed man. His identity being kept secret so other teams will not be able to prepare for his onslaught. Sources have said The Campus, however, that the bandit was seen on Monday in Canada as recently as yesterday and is in training for the rigorous test of mind, body and skill - where only the strong can survive - that defines UBG. In preparation for this nationwide event, the one-armed bandit has trained himself, and the bed he sleeps in, quite frequently in recent weeks. "Eventually," isn't just for grown ups; the bandit told us before, while throwing beer bottles off his balcony down under, "but you can depend on me to make sure that we will come home with the trophy, the glory and all 71 of our arms raised high."

NOTES: Mark Fitzgerald will not be attending this year's events because he is going to Mexico to become a bullfighter... Aaron, Class of 2002, is now an action hero in Montreal... Chapheau, standing on the roof of last year's host hotel, was available for further comment because he was busy swimming through a massive garbage bin... Steve Martel, a senior on last year's team, has officially come out of the closet and is in training for the rigorous test of mind, body and skill -
Rez
from Mack to Munster

By Jennifer Waslin

It is well known that living in residence can be the best time or the worst time of your university career. This being said, here is what every first year student must know in order to survive a year living on campus.

Shower. Shoes. Need we say more? Think of how many people have used that shower in the past years.

Purple. School spirit is contagious at Bishop's. You will quickly learn this after attending your first football game. It is a mass of purple.

Air freshener. Be it subtle Glade Plug-in or elaborate room spray, air fresheners are highly recommended.

Message boards. While you live there, in rez you are rarely found in your room. Chances are you are visiting down the hall, in the TV room, getting dinner or, occasionally in class. Don't miss any messages from visitors.

Pictures, posters and paraphernalia. Upon arriving you will notice your room is pretty bleak. The beige walls are supposed to be soothing but are, in fact, rather ugly. It is your mission to turn your room into something of your own. Somewhere liveable.
The life of an RA

By Elise Frketich

If I had gone to any other university besides Bishop's, I would never have become an RA. There's something about the bishop's pride that makes you want to get involved and do something for your university. During my first year I lived in Abbott residence, which was an amazing experience. I never even imagined what it would be like to have all of my friends living in the same building as me. And I didn't even know more than two people when I first came to Bishop's, I was just lucky to have met so many great people in my rez right away. So after an unforgettable year in rez, I was definitely not ready to move off campus. I wanted to help the next batch of first years to enjoy their rez experience as much as I had mine. Also, the new ones need someone around to show them the Bishop's way, so I became an RA.

Who wouldn't want a job that's as incredibly social as the RA job is. My second year in rez, and my first year as an RA was spent in Mack. Another year and another amazing group of people thrown together in the close quarters of a residence. Except this time add longer hallways, communal bathrooms and the occasional radio in my hand for duty nights. The first month of RA life was spent trying to remember the 100 some odd names, and planning events so that each of those 100 people knew the other 99 names as well. Not that the RA team had to work very hard at that.

They also believe that cooperation between educational institutions in different countries contributes to a better understanding between nations by furthering awareness and knowledge of other cultures and social practices.

Members of NIBS recognize each others’ qualifications, have a common goal of collaboration, and encourage participation in the following:

- Student exchanges/interactions
- Faculty exchanges/interactions
- Exchanges of ideas for teaching programs
- Joint teaching and research programs
"An Outstanding Event"

We tried hard. It was fun. Damn Newfies!

Many congratulations to the Bishop’s University team, Jonathan Fortin, Jacquelyn Novak, Erin van Schaayk, and Jennifer Waslen, who showed their dedication and professionalism throughout the competition. After three long days of a round robin tournament, Bishop’s beat the Auckland University of Technology team to move on to the semi-finals. They were joined by Helsinki School of Economics, Chulalongkorn University, and Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Both semi-final matches were intense, but unfortunately Bishop’s lost to Memorial, the only other Canadian team in the tournament.
After four years of studying, planning, playing and most of all, dreaming of this day, we all were as sad as we were happy; the end of so many hours staring at a computer screen, sitting through enlightening lectures, finally is coming to an end. However, that also means that it’s time to say goodbye to good friends. It’s time to say farewell to Lennoxvegas, the Lion, the Loft, Rez and all that is associated with these good times. The future is bright for all of us, and as we hug and cry, our sadness to depart, we also celebrate the success, and reap the rewards of hard work.

Cheers.

convocation

150 Years

A Special Convocation of Bishop’s University took place on Tuesday 28 January 2003, 150 years to the day since the signing of our Royal Charter by Queen Victoria. Her Excellency the Governor General of Canada, and the Archbishop of Montreal received honorary degrees. In addition, and at the same ceremony, Canada Post unveiled a commemorative stamp to mark the occasion.
MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

I have had the opportunity to get to know quite a few of the students who form the 2003 graduating class - and a great class it is! Whether enjoying the excitement of both losses and victories on the playing field, or producing and supporting great drama, music and art, or hosting the NIBS competition or CASA conferences, or engaging in other enriching activities, the class of 2003 has demonstrated the Bishop’s spirit at every turn. We shall always remember the great fire of 2003, and remember with it the exceptional community spirit demonstrated by our students, by our alumni and by the Lennoxville community. I congratulate each of you on your successes and hope that the confidence, skills and knowledge you have acquired in your years at Bishop’s will serve you well in the years ahead. They have served countless alumni before you whom you now join as your new Bishop’s family. The class of 2003 is leaving and I hope you take the best of Bishop’s with you wherever you go. I hope also that you will return - because that’s what Homecomings are all about.

Principal Janyne M. Hodder
Convocation 2003
June 7th

Mr. Chancellor, My Lord Bishop, Honorands, Members of Convocation, Families and Friends, Dear Graduates,

Every year, when we recruit future Bishop's students, we promise each student the opportunity to reach his or her personal best. Best academic performance and best performance in myriad other aspects of a well-lived life - in sports and recreation, in artistic and cultural expression and appreciation, in community service and volunteerism, in leadership and student government, in personal and social relationships and commitments.

We believe that the benefits of a sound and liberal education of the kind we have been offering for 160 years should be felt in every aspect of our lives and that university education is an important step to well-lived life. You have taken that step now and we honour you today for this.

Nous sommes fiers de vos efforts et de vos succès et heureux d'avoir tenu notre promesse. Fiers de nos boursiers, de plus en plus nombreux, fiers de nos récipiendaires de prix de prestige, fiers aussi de ceux et celles qui se sont déjà trouvé un emploi à leur mesure. Fiers cette année des nombreuses initiatives de nos étudiants et étudiantes et de leur remarquable esprit communautaire.

The class of 2003 has been an extraordinary group of students. In this class are student leaders who paved the way for the building of a new residence - a project you will have certainly seen on your way in - students who modified the Orientation Program to provide better academic integration for new students, students who founded the Bishop's Chapter of the International Golden Key Society to recognize academic achievement, and great student athletes, musicians and singers, actors and artists. There are winners of international competitions and leaders in journalism, residence life and student government. There students who lived through the fire in town last January and others who gave them clothing and shelter.

2003 is a great vintage and we expect a great deal from you in the years to come. So come back and tell us regularly how life outside the Bishop's bubble is turning out.

I will remember many of you — serving on committees, eating breakfast in my home, attending meetings in my office, strolling across the campus — as being quite wonderful men and women. Thank you for choosing us; we are immensely pleased we chose you.

And to all parents here today: we honour you for the great job you have done with your sons and daughters, the Bishop's class of 2003.

Time quickly passes and here I am, about to finish my time here at Bishop’s. As I sat down to write this, memories of Orientation Weeks, nights at the Loft, all nighters and even just Sunday afternoons on my couch gossiping, flood my mind.

What a great community we live in, and this past year has tested that. With all the fires, disasters and emergencies, I truly realize that I am leaving more than just my university days behind, I am leaving my family and home.

Bishop’s is such a special place and you do not really find that out until you come here. I first heard about Bishop’s University when I was in the 8th grade and my oldest brother was applying to universities. He applied to Bishop’s and then turned down his acceptance because he felt it was too far away. I remember at the time thinking that was a silly excuse. A few years later I was deciding where I wanted to go, and I decided to apply to Bishop’s. When I first told my family that I was going to Bishop’s University, they, and in particular, my Grandma, thought I was crazy. Queen’s was only 40 minutes away, why was I going 6 hours away? A few weeks later when the subject was brought up again, this time, my Grandma said nothing negative. Instead, she mentioned that her doctor had gone to BU and loved it. He told her that I was making one of the best choices of my life and that it was a great school. This anonymous doctor of my grandma, completely changed my family’s perspective. That’s the interesting thing about BU, its graduates are everywhere and when you least expect you’ll meet one, you do. As I end my days as a BU student, about to enter life as an alumna, I wonder what my next BU experience holds.

Bishop’s is a great place, but is not the place itself, it is the wonderful people and friends that I have met while I have been here. I wish each and every one of you the very best and hopefully, once again, our paths will cross.

Thanks to my husband Jiping and my son Rong for their support and understanding. I spent a great time here, where I learned a lot of knowledge. I have met many people who will be cherished in my heart. Thanks to Lord for giving me a wonderful opportunity.

Winning as a Team

“You win as a team and you lose as a team”, he says, “There are no heroes on this team. If you are a hero in a game you lose, you’re still a zero.” The team lost the OUFLA national championship to Brock University, a powerhouse who has won the vast majority of national championships over the last fifteen years.
