The Quad
Recti Cultus Po...
When you arrive in Lennoxville, there is a feeling of anticipation and excitement mixed with the timidity of youth. You are young in years, or perhaps just young at heart.

Either way it is Bishop's University that you have chosen as the place that will teach you the ways of the world.

The spirit that you encounter at Bishop's is overwhelming. How can this many people be so exuberant, so enthusiastic, so purple?! And then suddenly you are one of them. It is impossible how to discern when and how you joined their ranks; but you did.

Perhaps it was the homecoming game; alumni flocked from all corners of the world to display the pride of purple that has flowed through their bodies since their first day here.

It might have been that time in your second year when classes started to make sense outside the classroom setting. You began to take those ideas and circulate them, wanting to share with others the knowledge you acquired.

Maybe it is today that has caused your being to feel alive. Bishop's has become a magical place for you: that clichéd home away from home, that second family. Your memories of these college days will linger in your heart. You realize that you will soar through life with purple in your veins. You have received the strength, spirit and knowledge that this school grants to its students.

You are ready for the unexpected. You are ready for life.

I want to thank all of those that have helped put this book together. Many thanks go to Joy Chandler and Wendy Wark of the SRC for their administrative support and care, as well as to all of you who gave your photographs. I especially want to thank my Assistant Co-Editors Lauren Bernardo and David Johnston and the Quad staff for all their hard work and dedication to this publication.

I have had a great time the past two years as Bishop’s yearbook editor, and I hope that you enjoy the end product. For my fellow grads, I hope that this book will serve to remind you of your unforgettable years and memories of your Bishop’s experience. Best wishes for the future.

Cheers,
Dianne Henderson

You may not be aware that Recti cultus pectora roborant is the Bishop’s University motto. Literally translated it means “sound learning strengthens the spirit,” but there are many meanings. It could also be “good knowledge and ideas strengthen the heart.” “Pectora” also means “the chest” or metaphorically the will, the resolve, or the determination.

Over the past year I have seen first hand that you, Bishop’s students, are indeed living up to our motto. I have experienced the quality of your minds, your hearts and your soul. I have seen your resolve and determination in the classroom, on stage and on the playing fields. It was meeting students and feeling the energy of the Bishop’s Experience as I walked on campus that originally made me aspire to become Principal of this remarkable University.

Recti cultus pectora roborant is not just a plaque on the wall or Latin on our crest. It is about the Bishop’s Experience. You live it through all the classes, extra-curricular activities, discussions and debates that are part of daily life at Bishop’s. I have no doubt that your years at Bishop’s will help you to contribute to the development of our society today and of generations to come.

Thank you for my great “frosh” year. I hope you continue to enjoy the many benefits of a recti cultus and the many pleasures of pectora roborant.

A Message From Your Principal
Bishop’s Orientation week, known this year as “Pirates of the Massawippi” set sail on September 5th. Oftentimes it is hard to judge the success of activities from the inside, but we can infer from such comments as “This was the best week of my life” that the week was indeed a huge success for both the SRC and the students.

The intensity and occasional insanity of the week can be attributed to the over 700 new students who chose Bishop’s as their new home. Also the dedication and never-say-die attitude of the frosh leaders played possibly the most important role in ensuring the week’s success. Because of their dedication and enthusiasm the week ended unlike any other: with the same number of students it started with. This week began with 19 groups and ended with 19 groups- this is unprecedented and sets the bar for future years! Picking a winning group for the week was next to impossible as they had all made it through the week with strong groups of dedicated frosh. The eventual winners were the League of Seamen who went above and beyond the call of frosh group duties and dominated with class and a really good breakfast in bed. Rounding out the top three were Shiver me Timber, who earned the most money for the Terry Fox initiative and Walk my Plank, who collected the most points for the week with a whopping 12,000,000 points!

As one of the coordinators, I saw so many different aspects of the school contribute to this marathon. Chris Leveille and Samantha Lovelace put together the academic side of Frosh week including the awesome Student Life sessions. Approximately 25 clubs participated in Club Day, which was held during frosh week for the first time and included a BBQ with the music of BU’s own “Water Solubles”. A big thank-you goes to Erin Phillips and the BUMS crew for running our Gaiter Cafes! The RA team not only promoted all our events and took care of the Froshies as they came home from the festivities, but also planned and stood out in the rain making popcorn for the Pirates of the Caribbean movie night.

This week was all about sharing our passion and love of all that is Bishop’s University. We witnessed that in the form of attendance and enthusiasm at each and every event. From the opening night with the BU drama department and Cameron Hughes to Field Day, to the rockin’ Matt Good show, to the football game and more, the plan of this week was to show the new students the spirit and meaning of the Bishop’s experience, to bring them into this small community we all know and love and to get them stared on the path to the best years of their lives.

An Alumni's Perspective

There's a certain feeling you get when you walk into the house you grew up in, even if you've been away for a long while. It's a different feeling than you get anywhere else in the world. When you are in your own home, it's very different than all the other places you go in life. This is because you can see it differently since you've seen it from so many different angles and viewpoints; from a small person who knew so little, to a grownup who has their own thoughts and ideals. Everything looks different over time, but its all home.

This is the overwhelming feeling I was struck with when I attended my first Homecoming as an alumnus. I walked up to the stadium over an hour early for the game, not quite clear headed despite it still being very much in the a.m., and I didn't really feel any different than I had ever felt going to one of these games. That was the shocker; it didn't feel like reliving some past glory, it was more like just living it, period. Old friends didn't feel much need for catching up, more just like picking up where they left off. Sure maybe it had been 2-3 years since they'd seen each other, in one case I saw it had been 20 years. Still the conversation didn't revolve too much around what so and so was doing, or what new promotion had just been snagged at the office—why would it? It doesn't really make sense to spend all one's time talking about such things when everybody within earshot is 20 years old and doesn't have a care in the world other than where their next beer is going to be had. That doesn't just apply to the 20 year olds either because whether you were still a young man like myself, or not so much, like a couple of older fellows on prosthetic knees I chatted with a bit later; we were just living the way we'd lived when we were still working on being the class of '78 or '93 or '03.

From these feelings come the statements like “it's not like it used to be, we used to know how to have fun.” This is hardly new, they were saying it when I was a frosh in '98 and I'm sure this year's frosh will be saying it in 2008. This old Homecoming standard is hardly evidence that Bishop's is on the decline, in fact it is quite the opposite. Alumni have been making this same statement for years and will always do so as long as Bishop's is healthy, because not one alumnus can imagine how B.U. could have been better or more fun than when it was their home. With any luck every class will be so lucky and for that reason we'll all keep coming back, after all it's where we grew up.

Jobs on Campus

The students that work at the Plex are always familiar faces to see on the way to that early morning work-out or intramural game. There's always a smile, even when they're collecting your sweaty towels!

Students serving students? It's not unheard of; in fact, it's a regular occurrence. Bishop's provides a wealth of on-campus employment at places such as Dewhurst Dining Hall, Information Technology Services, the library and the Sports Plex.

These students help keep everything running smoothly and we owe them a large thank-you!

At the library, many students spend countless hours behind the desk dealing with our late fees, or dragging carts of books around the floors. Library workers make our lives a little bit easier during the crunch time!
Dewhurst Dining Hall and the Gacier Grill employ many R.U. students, as well as those from Champlain. Their hard work to serve us our daily food stuffs should not be forgotten!

The ITS team in the Johnson building are always there to rescue you out of your technological woes. Whether it be a computer meltdown or other difficulty, the students here know their stuff and are always willing to share their knowledge with those in need.

STUDENTS HELPING STUDENTS
All Hallows Eve

One of Bishop's finest times of year. Halloween in Lennoxville is like no other in North America. Just ask David Letterman!
Halloween: When We All Come Out to Play

Bishop's has always been the place to be on the 31st of October, and Halloween 2004 was no exception. Never has there been another University that has fostered more guts for the glory of an outrageous holiday.

Every year, students from across the continent have travelled just to be in Lennoxville for this legendary day. This year, many in attendance came from Maine, New York State, Montreal, Ontario and as far as Vancouver!

Although most B.U. students can attest to the fact that although in a Small town, Bishop's students know how to have fun all the time, Halloween is where we shine. Our students demonstrate their creativity and vitality through their interesting costumes and their “never say die” attitudes.

One would think that perhaps rainy or snowy weather would slow these vikings, devils, and pirates down, but we certainly are persistent and pursuasive of our goal: to walk the streets protected by our disguises for as long as we can, and to truly live the Bishop's experience.
spread a little joy

The Christmas season at Bishop's is one of joy and charity, where B.U. students look to give back to those in the community and all around the world.

As per usual St. Mark's chapel was packed during its annual carol service. Dozens of students made up parcels going to overseas soldiers and the Third World for Operation Shoebox. To help put everyone in the mood for the holiday season, a beautifully decorated tree was displayed in the Quad as a charity fundraiser.

While most students return home for the holidays, many still sure to spread some of their holiday cheer around the Eastern Townships.

Campus Ministries, led by Chaplain Heather Tompson, worked with students to put together shoeboxes full of things to send to soldiers that were overseas and away from their families during the holidays. They asked for donations from students, faculty, and the community, and they poured in. Items included simple things such as toothpaste, brushes, gum and candy. It may seem like basic amenities to most, but they were definitely appreciated by the soldiers.

Winter Holidays

Here Comes Santa!
Big Buddies held their annual Christmas party in the Pub, where many Little Buddies got to see Santa and even get some presents!

LEFT: The Tree of Life Campaign. Some students put together a campaign in which they were able to raise funds to donate to a children’s hospital. Students could purchase a light for 2 dollars that would be displayed on a large Christmas tree in the middle of the Quad.
It’s funny how many Bishop’s girls seem to have a great love for lawn gnomes ... what does that say about B.U. boys?

Something has just got to be done about these lazy landlords! It’s their fault, you know!

As part of the Frosh Week Treasure Hunt, Froshies had to eat a cold poutine without their hands; a very appropriate gesture, considering.

Ah! The future minds of tomorrow!
Caught in the Act of Something Highly Unusual...

They say that your university years are made up of the crazy days of your life. I think whoever “they” are, were right. But crazy should not necessarily be taken to mean the conventional definition of university foolishness. Bishop’s University is situated in Lennoxville, a town of five thousand, with the student population included. Needless to say, there are not too many activities for one to participate in, or places nearby to go to during those few hours outside of study. So Bishop’s students often find that they must improvise. We indulge all our senses into discovering the most outrageous, and often absurd things to do. While events such as Frosh Week and initiations are great outlets for these strange going-ons, they aren’t always necessarily the backbone of our behaviour. When it comes down to it, Bishop’s students simply have learned a talent that students from larger universities do not have the privilege of learning: how to entertain oneself in any possible way with minimal resources. While some may refer to this behaviour as unusual, we here at Bishop’s prefer to think of it as ambitious and creative, although it is questionable what we may think a few years down the road.

Initiation for new members of the Bishop’s ultimate Frisbee team was to drink a beer out of a frisbee, so creative! Sometimes it’s best just not to ask...
St. Patrick's Day
ODE TO THE PATRON SAINT OF IRELAND
While Ireland’s celebration of Saint Patrick is more of a holy and religious time celebrating his life, outside of the country, St. Paddy’s day is a celebration of all things Irish. There are conflicting stories of how St. Patrick’s day came to be celebrated in North America. One version says that on March 17th, 1762, a group of Irish-born soldiers en route to the local tavern to honour their patron saint, staged the first parade in colonial New York. Bystanders joined the promenade and singing Irish ballads and dancing, following the soldiers to the tavern for most likely, a nice, cold beer.
Livin’ Greek-like

Greek life in the Sororities and Fraternities of Bishop’s

There are four wonderful Greek groups on Bishop’s campus. You may see them in the Sub building raising money for their sponsored or local charities. Or perhaps you’ve seen some of their posters for mixers and other great get-togethers just about everywhere, or merely catch them wearing their letters in your classes. Needless to say, their presence is always there.

The two sororities are comprised of Alpha Phi and Alpha Delta Pi which include many fabulous and ambitious women; while Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi are the two fraternities which comprise quite a few fun and outgoing gentlemen.

Many get involved in a fraternity or sorority for a vast array of reasons. However, most will come to conclude that this involvement brings to them more than they anticipated. Whether it is giving back to the community, striving towards your goal or finding life long friends, being Greek is an amazing experience for a student at Bishop’s.

B.U.E.C.'s dedication to the organization of this event was phenomenal. They also put together a furniture sale so students that were moving could get rid of their furniture without throwing it out and while making a buck! The sale was very successful and many students made good use of the opportunity to be environmentally-friendly.
A New Spin on the Old

This year's Rock for the River was the first of its kind. Originally called Rock for Recycling, in order to promote and introduce a recycling program to Bishop's, organizers saw that the time had come to move on to a new cause. Rock for the River was created to promote the clean up of the Lennoxville waterways, particularly the Massawippi River.

This event was perhaps one of the most successful in quite a few years, largely accounting to the sunny weather and the B.Y.O.B. policy. Many students and those from the community came out to listen to some great music and relax before hitting the books for exams.

The event ran very smoothly thanks to the Bishop’s University Environmental Club (B.U.E.C.) and Sam Paterson, who coordinated the entertainment acts. Rock for the River began with a great start and we all hope its success continues, and that maybe someday, we will have a cleaner Massawippi River!

So the time has finally come! You have finally finished your academic career at Bishop’s, and after those three, four, five, or maybe six years, you’re ready to take on the world. So B.U. upcoming graduates celebrate this occasion and their accomplishments by doing something we do well (among other things of course): partying. Except this time, we do it in style. No sweats and sneakers, but instead ball gowns and ties. And no Lion line up, but instead a posh conference area. Of course after the fancy fun and etiquette lesson, most will of course head to the Lion ... we can just never get enough of it, and will dream of it after we leave.

Never Too Much for a Gaiter

Some might think that perhaps students at B.U. take school spirit to the extreme, and they would be right. Of course, what other way is there? We hold no shame in baring all, or even wearing a trashcan. Maybe it is too extreme, however, we prefer to see it as unique.
Residence
This past year in residence has been packed with good times, friendships and fun. Each residence on campus is unique in its own way, with its own special community within the larger Bishops community. From traditional residence style buildings such as Mackinnon and Norton/Pollock, to bog style residence style buildings like Abbott, Kuehner, and Munster (the 24 hour quiet residence) to Bishop’s newest apartment style residences; each building attracts and develops very diverse and unique communities.

This past year the Resident Assistants and the Department of Residence and Conference Services worked hard to provide educational and social opportunities within residence. Residence life is a big part of the Bishop’s Experience, as learning takes place well beyond the classroom. This year the Residence Life Team started with a rez-wide barbecue followed by a bus trip to Sherbrooke University to watch the Gaiters take on Vert et Or at Sherbrooke’s new stadium. The year was packed with monthly coffee houses, floor dinners, movie nights, bowling trips, rock climbing and many other great events that brought the community together. The year was capped off with a year end formal at the Granada Theatre in Sherbrooke with the theme being classic Hollywood. Residents were able to participate in committees such as the food committee, Residence Life Committee, and each building had their own social committee. The social committee gives residents the opportunity to get further involved in residence life through assisting with programming within the buildings.

The 2004/2005 year provided residents with many opportunities to get involved, learn outside the classroom, and interact socially. The Residence Life Team worked extremely hard over this past year with their efforts being very much appreciated.

ABBOT HALL
This New Side building, housing a mix of first and upper-year students, always develops a strong sense of community. It's a great place to meet other students, make new friends, and get some serious studying done when the occasion warrants. This year was a great one, Abbotteers tend to be a loyal and happy bunch.

MUNSTER HALL
Munster, the hall boasting the nicest furniture on campus, is a home to be envied for its picturesque view of the Bishop's landscape, as well as its tranquil nature. Munsterites always manage to create their own niche in University life and Lennoxville culture. Get involved!

KUEHNER HALL
Kuehner is home sweet home to a medley of new and returning students. As the residence hall located closest to the Sports Plex and furthest from the Library, this New Side building always produces a breed of students tough enough to make the daily trek across campus to class (3-5 min.), come rain, snow, sleet, or shine!
PATERSON HALL
Paterson Hall is Bishop’s newest residence, offering a unique style of apartment living where students can have the independence of their own place, while still having all the wonderful amenities of rez.

MACKINNON HALL
Situated at the centre of campus, Mack is a mere stone’s throw from practically everything at Bishop’s. As well, Mackinnonites enjoy the use of a common kitchen facility and of the Blue Room, an inviting lounge / study facility with a fireplace. You and the friends you’ll make will be glad you spent your year in Mackinnon Hall.

NORTON-POLLACK HALL
Norton and Pollack have been turning out some of Bishop’s most brilliant - and legendary - students. The residence overlooks the historic Quad and is the closest residence to the University Centre and most of the academic buildings. It is known for its spirit, camaraderie, and pride.

This year's R.A. team was a lot of fun. They were always up to crazy things, and provided many activities for their residents to participate in.
Two of the most popular activities to do in rez at B.U.:
1. Mid-morning naps, midafternoon naps, and pre-party naps.
2. Finding silly and sometimes rediculous things to do.

It's a tough life in rez...
As the ancient Romans knew, Recti Cultus Pectora Roborant. Strong learning does indeed strengthen the spirit of all those who have embarked on their own personal pursuit of knowledge. From the ancient Greeks who would stare at the stars, to the modern men who discovered flight, learning and discovery have been a cornerstone of society. Moreover, learning as a personal practice allows those students of life to join the hallowed halls of academia. Learning, the pursuit of knowledge, needs no practical ends. Learning for the joy of knowledge, learning for the want of personal growth, and learning to strengthen the spirit is indeed what a Bishop’s education offers.

The liberal arts philosophy of our institution creates an environment where a student’s pursuit of knowledge is entirely defined by the student. Humanities, natural science, social science, business, and education courses all complement one another, drawn together by the common thread of critical thinking. Opportunities abound where students can pursue a field in which they have some interest, regardless of their background or original program. To take full advantage of these opportunities is to avail oneself of the Bishop’s experience. The spirit of diversity is strengthened by the opportunities in the academic environment of Bishop’s University. Allowing one’s interests to guide one’s learning, and listening to the calling of one’s own spirit to direct one’s learning is the essence of a Bishop’s education.

This necessary diversity which creates leaders of tomorrow is well informed by an eclectic faculty with a wide range of interests. The small number of students at Bishop’s pays dividends when it comes to the intimate environment in which students can interact with faculty. This results in professors who care not only for the students’ pursuit of knowledge, but also for the students’ development as members of the community. The spirit of camaraderie is strengthened by the trust relationship that exists between students and faculty. The full range of knowledge that these learned individuals can impart is matched only by their generosity of time and effort in creating a positive educational experience for all of those involved.

After the three, four, or five year journey has come to an end, our degrees tell us that we have acquired the knowledge that we seek. However, this does not mean that our pursuit is over. Our experience at Bishop’s serves as a foundation that prepares us for our futures. Our spirits are strengthened by the knowledge we have gathered during our time at Bishop’s, and, armed with that knowledge, with the support of professors, librarians, staff, and administration of the institution that we hold so dear, we are prepared to continue pursuing our intellectual goals every day for the rest of our lives.

Bishop's students know how to take the learning out of the classroom

Every fall each department hosts an event bringing together the old and the new. These social events are a great opportunity for first year students to interact with professors and upper year students outside the classroom environment. The occasion also allows new professors to mingle and get to know their peers and pupils. Bishop's is known for its small class sizes and these after class gatherings are just another part of our unique community.

In opening I think it is important that everyone realize I find it nearly impossible to sum up six months in a foreign country in a mere few short paragraphs; having said that I hope you will enjoy my rendition of Rachel Gottfried’s and my own experiences while on exchange.

We were attending Rhodes University in Grahamstown, South Africa. Now Rhodes we found is very similar to Bishop’s. In many aspects the schools are identical. Rhodes’ colours are purple and white as well; they have about as many parties as Bishops; and yes, they even have their own version of “The Lion” called “The Rat and Parrot”. It was easy to feel at home in an environment with the southern hemisphere’s equivalent of Bishop’s, complete with their own version of “purple Jesus” called “yukka”.

As far as school is concerned, what we experienced was both diverse as well as interesting. Being an English major I managed to convince the chair-person of the Science department to allow me to complete a few courses in third year zoology. This amused many of the professors in the department knowing full well that I had no knowledge of South African animals. At various points on game drives or while completing field research assignments, I ended up chasing down particular animals for professors, only to be informed that the lizard I had just pinned down could tear my hand off or some similar threat relating to injury.

Rachel actually managed to stay on task with her course selection and spent a lot of time studying in the political sciences department. This, of course, resulted in a trip to Robben Island, home of Nelson Mandela for 23 years of his 27 year incarceration. The island had a ghostly somber feel to it, which reflected both the difficult times under the apartheid as well as the dawning of the new country in its post-apartheid state.

Cape Town, the capital city, overlooking Robben Island was incredible. It boasted a variety of cultures and attitudes all converging in one market place of tourism and trade, the closest city to which I could relate it would be Toronto, without the attitude. In all aspects the city was fully industrialized and had every basic necessity of a city in North America.

Unfortunately good times must always end; and although the pictures and memories keep the legacy alive, they are nowhere near as powerful as actually being there. The friendly people, diverse cultures (over 12 official languages within the country) and breathtaking scenery will live on forever in my mind. On looking back my only regret is that I did not stay longer. There is such an expanse to cover. Six months is hardly enough to even gain a grasp of the country’s complex history, let alone see all the famous sights. Civilizations have thrived on the African continent long before Canada was ever established and yet we think only of the stereotypes when we think of the great savanna. Our limited views of such a vast and rich history do no justice and so I encourage each of you to travel there and see the country for yourselves. If there is one place you should travel before you’re too old or unadventurous, travel to Cape Town, hike the Cape of Good Hope, and look off of its edge gazing over one of the southern most points of the world. You’ll see nothing and everything all in one instant and that alone may be enough to get you hooked, like myself, on South Africa and the people therein.

What universities did you study at?

"The ancient University Glasgow (1451), obtaining the traditional Scottish M.A. Psychology in 1968. I tried to follow Adam Smith's footsteps but found political economy less cheering than the wonders of psychology."

Where could you be found on a Saturday night?

"If the given Saturday night was before exams, I would be found quietly hunched over my work desk surrounded by books and notes, for memorizing and regurgitation. If the given Saturday night was one of the other 50, you would find me at another table surrounded by liquid refreshment, noisily discussing the issues of the day (e.g., 'Why did Carlyle call political economy the dismal science?' 'Will the Rangers win on Saturday?')"

Where could you be found on a Saturday night?

"Practicing rallye driving. During the end of my studies I had become interested in rallye driving. During weekends we would rent a couple of old beetle WVs and drive with a whole flock of friends to deserted beaches (this was winter). We would draw a circuit with white-wash and practice going progressively faster until somebody tipped the car over and the usual recriminations ensued. Hertz rent-a-car never understood why the cars reeked of seaweed..."

Describe the worst place you ever rented.

"A room in an old vacant mansion that the anarchists had 'occupied in the name of the people'. No water, electricity and constant noise from the all-night theoretical debates on how to administer the building. The anarchists wanted everyone to spontaneously go fetch water; the leftists wanted a committee to organize tasks, and the centrists wanted to hire help!"
Dr. David Lee
Department of Environmental Studies and Geography

Where would you be found on a Saturday night?
“For my first two years, I was usually spending my weekends at the local pub with friends. My last two years though, I was usually found at home, working away at finishing my thesis.”

Describe the worst place you ever rented?
“The place where I used to wake up with cockroaches in my hair...”

What were your dietary staples?
“Kraft Dinner and canned tuna.”

Department of Education

Where could you be found on a Saturday night?
“While at Bishop’s I was usually at home taking care of my young family, unless there was a special event.”

Describe the worst place you ever rented.
“During college I shared a room in a house with two other people, but some were up to six in a room.”

What were your dietary staples?
“During college the cafeteria served hot tomatoes. It was the worst thing I ever saw.”
Student Services

The people behind E
Every day students get career advice, personal counselling or a check up; they make use of the Plex facilities and residences. Yet many students remain unaware of many of the services offered to them. The staff that make up student services provide a well-balanced living experience for the Bishop’s student. They continue to make a positive impact on the lives of students, one person at a time.

Student Services include Health Services, Counselling and Employment, Housing and Conferences, Athletics, Security, and Campus Ministry. We can’t forget also, Buildings and Grounds Services, as well as the Janitorial staff here at Bishop’s. Each member adds to the BU life.
The Joys of a Liberal Arts Education

Bishop’s academics are comparable to none. Students are highly encouraged to think independently and be creative. It’s all about innovation and spirit here. With the help of professors, administration, the Employment and Counselling Centre, and the Student Council, B.U. students are able to embrace and participate in a wide variety of academia.

Business students at Bishop’s engage in a wide array of exercises simulating what the real business world is all about. Here, some business students of Dr. Robson’s Management and Innovation class have organized a murder mystery dinner to promote their invention.
Career Day

BOTTOM TWO PHOTOS: Every year the Employment and Counselling Centre help guide students to realize their future careers and potential. In the fall, they held a successful Career Day where many employers came to tell Bishop's students why they should consider their company for employment.

Continuing the tradition set forth last year, Patricia Cove, Humanities Senator organized a highly successful festival celebrating the Humanities Division. Students from many of the departments dedicated their time and creativity to the show.

ABOVE: Arlie Béliveau, a first year Fine Arts student paints students' portraits to help gather interest in the department's launch of the Paper Gallery Magazine this year.

Humansities Festival

Drama students inciting interest by performing still-life poses to music.
Each year, the drama department, along with other students put on a variety of plays for the viewing pleasure of Bishop’s and the community. Such efforts this year have included New Plays, Book of Days, Theatre Activ, Twelfth Night, and The Hunchback of Notre Dame.
Well-known to B.U. students is Bishop's University Music Society's (B.U.M.S.) Cabaret. Held twice annually where students of all departments are encouraged to share their talents on centre stage in a relaxed environment of their peers.

The Music Department at Bishop's is very active within the community. It is host to numerous concerts of performing artists in its Music Chez Nous series, as well as many performances by music students themselves. Music students involve themselves in all areas of the school, lending their talents to good causes and providing much-needed entertainment to the local pubs and cafes.

The infamous Jamie Crooks is the choir Director for the University Singers who perform two phenomenal shows each year, attracting hundreds of viewers.
Every Student needs their Downtime

After all that hard work in the classroom, the library, and the lab, B.U. students occasionally take the time to just relax. Lennoxville may be a small town, but its patrons seem to find ways of entertaining themselves; whether it be enjoying the great outdoors of the Eastern Townships, doing long overdue laundry, or just catching up on some sleep.
Your home away from home

With students coming from over 65 countries, international students are an important and growing group within the Bishop’s community. Students enjoy the safe, nurturing environment and the complete university experience found at Bishop’s.

The Bishop’s University International Student Association (BUISA) is a very active club where students from all over the world are encouraged to join together for meetings, organized trips and other special events.

The recently created International Student Centre also provides students with a comfortable environment for events or meetings.

The more pain I accepted from icy snow, keen wind, and harsh study, the more pleasure I exploited from alcohol. For a hedonist like me, Bishop’s was a possible heaven. I’m grateful.

A Message from your SRC President

What does it feel like? What does it feel like to be dropped off in a BU residence, your home away from home for eight months, where your most basic and fundamental love for this place will be developed? What does it feel like to ask yourself if this university is right for you, and then finally realize that it is you who must be right for it? What does it feel like to sit in class with a small number of other students mesmerized by what your favourite professor has decided to teach you that day? What does it feel like to be a student at a university where your participation in any form of student life makes a difference to every other student? What does it feel like to be learning in one of the most liberal environments this nation has to offer? What does it feel like to live in a part of Canada blessed by cultural diversity and beautiful landscape? What does it feel like to come back to Lennoxville after being home for the holidays, or the summer time, and get that feeling deep down in your gut that screams, “Man, I love this place.” What does it feel like to have a beer with doctor so and so at the Lion after class? What does it feel like to attend a university that just doesn’t want you to leave?

All these questions can be answered by simply explaining that IT FEELS LIKE THE BISHOP’S EXPERIENCE TO ME.

This university does something special to all of us. It makes us a family because we have all chosen to do something different by coming to Bishop’s. The SRC is extremely proud to offer you this yearbook so that you may keep in touch with all the memories of both times and friends that truly form the spirit of Bishop’s. The diploma which every graduating student receives would be worthless without all the experiences that are attached to it, and it is our hope that this book will remind you of the people, events, parties, professors, and friends that helped form your time at BU.

Some say that Bishop’s was the best time of their entire lives; some claim to have purple blood running through their veins. Whatever Bishop’s was for you is, I am sure, something you will never forget, and something you will cherish until your last homecoming, or until the last time you scream out with all the joy in your heart, “Raise a toast to Bishop’s University.”

Each year, to show their gratitude to all the hard working students that help, the Student Council puts on a Christmas Appreciation party. It is a great chance for all to get to know each other better outside of their workplaces.
helping make winter fun

Winter in Lennoxville can be a bit of a downer at times, as it seems to last forever and be incredibly cold. This winter, the Student Council helped to make the season a bit more bearable by making use of the cold, creating a great skating rink in the Quad. They also served up hot chocolate and hotdogs in the Quad during Winter Carnival Week for free to students on their way to the library and class. This all happened inside a winter castle constructed while most students were away enjoying Spring Break.
The DooLittle's convenience store is the alternative to Chartwell's on campus. They offer snacks, movies, and other items for students to pick up, while being able to support the SRC at the same time. DooLittle's is an SRC-managed store that employs B.U. students and serves others. Manager: Sarah Oulton.

The Bar staff this year had a hard task ahead of them. With the shutting down of the Loft in the first semester, they did their best to make the Pub work. They hosted many events and promotions there, and they all look forward to the opening of the new bar next year. Manager: Erik Ribideau.
CJMQ
CJMQ is a community FM radio station, located on campus and broadcasting across the Eastern Townships on 88.9FM. They are largely student run, have a pretty open format, and take pride in being a controversial member of the Bishop’s community – never boring and not too professional.
cjmq@ubishops.ca

THE CAMPUS
The Campus Newspaper is an independent rag that is available to all on campus and off campus students. The Campus staff worked very hard this year to inform B.U.’s students of all the issues, and all the fun taking place at Bishop’s.

Bishop’s Marshals and Student Patrol contribute a great deal to the environment at B.U. Students dedicate their time and many of their evenings to helping to promote a safe and fun environment for their fellow peers to have a good time. Whether it’s a walk home up Belvidere after closing hours, a visit to Safe Haven, or ensuring events run smoothly, Student Safety is always there. With the help of Security and the SRC, they help to make Bishop’s a safe place to party, and are a welcomed part of the Lennoxville community.
Bishop’s, although small in number of students, is very big in involvement. If you ask the majority of students, they will tell you that they are involved in at least one extra-curricular activity. What makes this possible is the wide variety of clubs available to them. These groups range in orientation from academic, lifestyle, hobby & interest, and public service in nature. There is a club to suit everyone’s interests.

B.U.’s clubs and groups are not all under the SRC; some of them are independent or attached to academic departments.

At the beginning of each year, club heads hold a Club Day where new students can get a chance to see what is offered at B.U. Clubs hold a special role in the Bishop’s community. As Lennoxville is a small town, joining a club can give students an opportunity to get involved, and to use some of their free time constructively.

Many clubs and groups have a key role in the community, helping children and participating in local events. Academic clubs help to expand on what is learned in the classroom, while getting to meet more people in your field; lifestyle clubs give students a chance to meet others sharing the same views as them; hobby & interest clubs allow students to share common interests; and public service clubs give students a chance to reach out to others. There’s a club or group at Bishop’s that is right for everybody!
The Bishop’s Rock climbing Club consists of approximately 60 members. The club climbs at various outdoor locations every weekend until the end of October. As of November, they begin to climb indoors at the Sherbrooke University climbing facility. Members are given instruction on safe climbing techniques and learn to set up various types of top roping.

The Bishop’s Hunting Club became part of the SRC clubs just this year. It seeks to bring together all those interested in the sport of hunting wild game.

Bishop’s University Commerce Society

Lots of students always ask “What is B.U.C.S.?” B.U.C.S. stands for the Bishop’s University Commerce Society. It is a student organization with a mission to improve the social and academic experience of all students in the Williams School of Business. B.U.C.S. is made up of an 8 member executive, 4 subcommittees, and several junior executives. All students enrolled in the Williams School are automatically a member of B.U.C.S.!

The students involved in B.U.C.S. organize social events like Wine and Cheeses, Happy Hours, Grad Cocktail, Karaoke Nights, Christmas Cocktail, the annual Golf Tournament and of course the infamous Mystery Bus Tours. They also send students to national case competitions and conferences and help them save money by organizing a used book sale. B.U.C.S. also tries to prepare business students for the future by organizing guest speakers, recruiting nights, and pairing each first year with an upper year mentor.

Big Buddies

Big Buddies had an amazing time this year! There were over seventy Big Buddies (Bishop’s University students) matched with Lennoxville Elementary School students. We kicked off the year with our traditional meet your Buddy event, which turned out to be a blast for all the kids and Buddies. The next event was Halloween bowling in Sherbrooke, and everyone got to dress up!! Then, after that we had our Christmas event and Santa Clause came to Bishop’s and delivered cool BU tee-shirts to all of the little Buddies!!! There was also a holiday scavenger hunt, cookie decorating and pin the nose on Rudolph. In January there was a plex day where everyone swam and played basketball, followed by the Lennoxville winter carnival, the puppet show in February, movie day in March and then finally the closing ceremonies in April. In addition to these events, this year the club added special extra events as well. They included decorating your own doorknobs, making your own Christmas ornaments, and an acting class put on by the Drama department. This year Big Buddies also had monthly drawing contests and Big Buddy of the month contests. Overall this year went by extremely well and everybody seemed to have a wonderful time! Bishop’s University is lucky to have such generous and helpful students that volunteer their time and energy to mentor their little Buddies!
Frontier College is a National Literacy Organization that has an incredibly active and dedicated chapter at Bishop’s University. Our projects in the Lennoxville community include tutoring programs at the French and English Elementary Schools, at the Regional High School, and a weekly Reading Circle program with Elementary School children.

B.U.S.T.A. is a club designed to allow students to participate in activities throughout the year. Activities held in the past include Wine and cheeses, Bowling Nights, Pizza and Info nights, and Public Skating. B.U.S.T.A. also produces and sells clothing to interested students.
Bishop's University Music Society is comprised of an executive of music honours, majors, and minors students. They have been behind the many musical events at B.U., especially its themed cabarets. They also have organized Halloween parties and a Valentine's formal, giving music students' bands an opportunity to play to an audience. They also help out a lot within the music department.

Bishop's Hip-Hop Dance Club was introduced in 2003 to promote hip-hop and jazz dance among the student body. As we know, the Loft was the place people could go to bust a move; we wanted to give students a chance to come learn some choreographed dances and perform as a team. A more competitive aspect of the club includes dance competitions in Montreal, and performances at the Loft, Pub, Lion and the Gaiter Review. To continue the dance vibe we are always encouraging new dancers to come join our crew!

B.A.R. (Bishop’s Advocating Responsibility) is a new student run awareness group interested in promoting student well-being by providing information about responsible lifestyle choices. Although our main focus is on responsible alcohol consumption, we also provide information about safe sex (AIDS), smoking etc. We attempt to accomplish these goals throughout the year, by organizing fun activities such as acoustic nights in the Loft, as an alternative to the bar scene. We welcome all students who are interested in having fun while helping to plan and implement events and help create a better Bishop’s community. Check out our website http://www.ubishops.ca/BAR outlines some of our past events and has many useful links.
The Bishop’s German Club is the only club designed to discover and enjoy the Germanic culture. The German people are one of those who came to Canada and contributed to the reputation it has today. Do you know Germany? This beer and sausages loving country is as well father of psychology, famous country for developing philosophy, mathematics, physics, chemistry and of course, classical music. Do you know the English language has the same origin as German: Anglo-Saxon. And people from Quebec pronounce some sounds that are from German than from French?

The Bishop’s German Club asks you to participate in various weekly or semi-annual events in order to enjoy agreeable moments in a Germanic environment.

To improve your language skills, we organize periodic all-level conversation meetings (« Stammtisch » and « Kaffee und Kuchen »), video nights, special nights of games, cooking, and of course, a German Club would not be a German Club if it did not celebrate two of the most famous German traditions, Oktober Fest (Beer Fest) and Wein Fest (Wine Fest).

Our activities are well recommended by the Bishop’s German professors who will be agreeably surprised to see you progressing in the language. We are waiting for you, numerous and motivated!

Wir wünschen Sie ein tolles Jahr. Tschüss!
Biology Club

Why join the Biology club? Why not? Biology Club members' major concerns are the instruction and promotion of education (and fun) in biology. This academic club is quite active with the annual Plant and Fish Sales, Wine and Cheeses, as well as Biology Conferences held locally and provincially.

Choral Ensemble

Bishop’s University Singers, while also being a credited course, is an extra-curricular activity as well, comprised of students, faculty, and members of the community. Each year, they perform two sold-out shows with which their hard work and dedicated hours show through.

The Amnesty International Club at Bishop's works also in conjunction with Champlain College. The club seeks to promote and advocate for issues held of importance to the NGO. A.I.'s biggest event this year was a conference organized to stop violence against women. Speakers were invited to speak about the issue from a local, regional and international level, and it was a great success.

Through the course of the year, Psychology Club executives Stephanie Kyle, Priscillia Lefebvre, Vanessa Lando, Annie Benoist, Mark Gravel, Samantha Dale, Vanessa Ostafichuk, Paul Davis, Jeanette Mannique, Marilane Brodeur and Michael Cannon worked hard to offer on and off-campus activities to Psychology students with the hopes of providing opportunities for Psychology students to socialize with other students and professors outside the classroom setting. These included things ranging from educational lectures and wine & cheese events to movie nights. We would like to thank Dr. Stuart McElvie for his continuing help throughout the year, especially for the numerous talks he organized which offered a good opportunity for students to learn more about the vast career and research possibilities in Psychology. We would like to congratulate all graduating Psychology students and remind everyone that their problems probably stem from unresolved breast-feeding conflicts.
Bishop’s University Environmental Committee (B.U.E.C.) is an organization that encourages awareness to environmental issues on the Bishop’s campus. Activities include maintaining and improving the recycling program, environmental speakers, and increasing awareness of current and local environmental issues. The B.U.E.C. also plays an important role in organizing Rock for Recycling, a free concert given at the end of the school year to raise money for the recycling program. Weekly meetings are open to voice student’s concerns.

B.U.E.C.’s main events this year included Campus Clean-up, Hazardous Waste Pick-up, the Buy Nothing Bee (with Women’s Centre and Poutine Press) and Rock for the River.

FOOTBALL

It was the first year under new head coach Tony Addona, along with new coach Leroy Blugh. Optimism was high for the Gaiters. Several key returning veterans like JF Roy and Dave Delaby, combined with several new stars figured to play prominently in the year. The year had some very good points this year. First year player, quarterback Kyle Williams, from the first drive through the rest of the year before he got injured was remarkable. It was so good he went on to be named the Top Rookie in Canada. Another high point in the year was the homecoming game with a solid 24-7 win over visiting Mount Allison before a large and loud crowd. While ultimately ending the year with a 1-7 record, the energy surrounding the team was amazing, and the team feels very confident that they are about to turn the corner and become very competitive in the QUFL. MVP David Delaby, Offensive Player of the year Kyle Williams, Defensive player of the year Kevin Mackey.
Despite being the reigning champions in Quebec, this year was supposed to be a rebuilding year, having lost so many talented players to graduation. However, with some incredibly tough play by their returning veterans and the surprising emergence of some of the younger players, the team was able to be very competitive during the course of the year. So much so that they made it to the conference finals against the same team they beat last year, the McGill Redmen. Unfortunately though, this time the result was not the same, as the Gaiters fell to McGill. However, since the rugby team is losing few players this year; look for them to be very competitive next year. MVP: Matt Gagnon, Coaches Award: Dave Furey, Rookie of the Year: Pierre Autret.

Women's Rugby

The Lady Gaiters rugby team represents in true Bishops form on and off the field in the 2004 season. Lead by Coach Jim Scheib and assistant coaches Christian Hagg and Eryn Hessian, the women's rugby team had a successful year.

The relatively young squad went through a rigorous per-season training camp to ready themselves for a tough season ahead. In early September the team attended a Montreal Irish tournament where Bishops were victorious over their arch rivals Concordia Stingers. The team showed promise for the up coming season rookies such as Simmone Sandercombe, Grace Buchanan, Vanya Skipper, Amy Gillant, Julie Snooks and Katie Smith starting for the Gaiters. Throughout the regular season the Lady Gaiters demonstrated their heart and perseverance bringing them to a 3-5 record. On a road trip to a tournament in Mass the Bishops girls showed American teams how to play and party Canadian style. The team won their division and the hearts of many frat boys and will remain in their memories for a long time to come.

All 28 members enjoyed amazing team building experiences which lead to a highly cohesive group who were inseparable.

The Conference recognized Kate Bagshaw and Becca King as All-Stars. As well, members were recognized for their contributions to the team: Simmone Sandercombe (rookie of the year), Grace Buchanan (Most Improved), Shaynen Moore (best forward), Becca King (best back) and Lindsay Price (MVP).

The BURFC will miss seniors Mary-Jane Court, Shaynen Moore, Rebecca King and Lindsay Price but look forward to next year's season and adventures. The Lady Gaiters show unbelievable promise for next season.
Women’s Hockey
This year’s hockey team the Polar Bears welcomed 9 new players to join the returning players. The team jelled quickly and by November was playing as if they had been together for years. After winning all their early games they entered the Dorval Women’s Invitational Tournament with great hope. The tournament went well, but they came up short in the final, losing their first and only game of the first semester. After Christmas the team travelled to Lewiston, Maine to play Bates College and a local prep school winning one and tying the other. The next trip was to the Middlebury Breast Cancer Tournament which, the Polar Bears won in overtime. In February the team travelled to Stowe, Vermont for the Stowe Women’s Invitational Tournament during which they won all 5 games and took the tournament win. We will be losing only 4 players next year and are looking forward to another great season. The team’s final record for the season was 21 wins, 2 loses, and 2 ties.

Injury was the word of the year for the Men’s Gaiter basketball team, making it a hard season to stay competitive. Despite having a season in which the team went 3 - 8, there were some good highs over the course of the year. Including a big overtime win at home over the University of Montreal, which put the Gaiters into the play-offs. Ricardo Telamon was also one of the high points for the Gaiters this year, playing so well that he earned the QUBL defensive player of the year honours.

The pride and joy of this year’s Bishop’s Gaiters athletic program was the Women’s Basketball team. This is a team who had every single lady coming back from a 5th place finish in the National championships last year. However, inconsistency and some injuries caused the team to struggle at times. However, they still managed a 17-11 record for the season, which gave them second place in the conference and a date with Concordia in the play-offs. However, it was not to be this year and they lost in overtime to the Stingers. Despite an early loss in the play-offs there was some incredible play this year, including Anouk Boulanger who was named a First Team All-Canadian and the QUBL MVP, and Emile Crofton who was a first team all-star in the QUBL. MVP: Anouk Boulanger, Team Award: Christine Murphy, Rookie of the year: Laure Pitfield.

Team Roster
Men's Lacrosse

Having finished second to Brock in the last two Baggataway Cups, this was the year for change as Bishop's was hosting the event. The regular season went exactly as planned for the Lacrosse team, going undefeated with few of the games being even close. Coach Damien Roy and his men had their eyes set on the final of the Baggataway Cup, where yet again they met up with Brock University. They were down by three goals with less than two minutes to play. After scoring two goals, the Gaiters made a final drive in last thirty seconds, with a final shot by Steve Beketa being blocked; a second place finish yet again for the Gaiters. This will only further drive the Gaiters, a team who will not rest until they hoist that championship above their heads.

MVP
Chris Lesanko

Rookie of the Year
Jimmy Southall

The Bishop’s Golf team had to play catch-up all year due to the late scholastic start of the university. As well, with many new faces on the team there was some inexperience on the team which showed on the course. They had to play their first tournament on the first weekend of school, and the lack of time to prepare showed with a poor start. The second tournament two weeks later was much better, and we were able to battle back to finish sixth out of eight schools. With a good veteran base returning next year, we look forward to a much better showing.

It was a tough season for the Women’s soccer team this year at Bishop’s. While there was not much success in one of the toughest leagues of the year, with their lone win coming over UQAM 2-1, it was nonetheless a great year of experience for the girls. MVP: Stacy Holder, Most Improved Player: Jennifer Anderson, Rookie of the Year: Melissa Cinquino & Chelsea Aboud.

THE WOMEN OF B.U.
boys will be boys!
This book is dedicated to the memory of Michel Fontaine (1983-2005).

Michel was an active member of the Bishop’s Community, and inspiration to all those who knew him. He made his presence known within his first week of university, being crowned the Frosh Week King in his first year of studies.

Michel was the manager of the men’s basketball team at both Bishop’s and Champlain Regional College. He was also a Student-at-large for two years, and a member of the B.U. rugby team.

Michel’s spirit, even during hard times was faithful and a constant that motivated and spread to all those who had the pleasure of knowing him. He was the essence of what a Bishop’s student aspires to be, and he will be truly missed by fellow students, faculty, and the whole Bishop’s community.
