Undergraduates at the University of Cambridge have been required for centuries to demonstrate that they have lived "within" a radius of one mile from the tower of St. Mary's Church for the requisite number of days per term before they may proceed to a degree. The experience of living in a university community has been regarded as an essential part of a university education.

This is also the Bishop's tradition. I hope that you have learned as much from your friends as you have from your professors and your reading during your years with us. If you have, then the staff of QUAD, in compiling for you a book of faces, has provided you with a means of recalling many of the most important things you have learned at Bishop's. I thank them on your behalf, and I wish you all good luck and challenging careers.

Prof. T. Judson

The Campus

Born a Canadian in the Peace River District of northern Alberta, Professor Judson has lived most of his life in Manitoba. He is now married and lives in Norton Hall, of which he is Dean of Residence, succeeding Professor J. Gray.

Bishop's University, seated in the midst of lazy hills and rolling farms, appeals to Professor Judson's familiarity with the Canadian prairies. The Campus hopes that he will enjoy working in such pleasant surroundings.

The Campus, October 2, 1953

Since his arrival at Bishop's University Andrew Judson has seen many changes occur. In 1953 the gown was part of the dress code and the 275 students and 20 faculty called Norton New Res.

Much has changed at Bishop's and so too in the study of Economics. In both these realms, Professor Judson has always kept up. Having served in many capacities here, there is many a student who will speak well of his attention and help in all aspects of the university experience.

Outside of Bishop's, Professor Judson has left his mark. The recipient of six honorary degrees, not to mention the many which he has earned through study, first at Brandon College and then U of T. Twice since arriving at Bishop's, he has made the long trip to the London School of Economics. An active supporter of the ICCA, and a regular at church, his retirement will leave a gap in the Bishop's community not easily filled.

For these and many more reasons, this edition of the QUAD is dedicated to him.

DIRECTORS NOTES
In a farm house, a while back, a boy named Owen decides to spend the summer putting on a play with the help of his cousins, his parents, and neighbours. While we watch their play, THE SAGE OF CARESFOOT COURT - a Victorian melodrama, a double story unfolds. We see Owen fighting illness and trying to get his parents back together again, and we watch the Caresfoot saga with all its romantic and sinister twists and turns. The two stories illuminate each other.

DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Northern Affairs by Ian Tamblyn was commissioned by the Bishop’s University Drama Dept. in the autumn of 1984. The workshop seen, therefore constituted the product of a very intense three & one half months. The play came through two written drafts, the second which was completed after rehearsals began. Work on the third draft was what was actually seen. The purpose of workshopping applies the energy of a whole theatrical company to the exploration and development of a new work. I hope that our efforts on Northern Affairs and the efforts of the workshop audience have served to aid and inform Ian Tamblyn and help him in his work.
