"Sound Learning Strengthens the Mind"
New Kids on the Block

WET 'N WILD is definitely the way to describe Gaiterization 1999—a week of insanity that welcomed nearly 7000 BABIES to the BU campus. This was a week of many firsts and it all began with the hypnotic wonders of Casey St. Jones, who made you believe that you were an exotic dancer on vacation or in a PURPLE ELEVATOR. Academic Orientation told you the 68 NIQU 1 tips to a great year. And how could we forget the first ever “Whacky World of Fruit” Field day... what a SPLENDOR IN THE GRASS that was! Have you ever seen so many STUDENT BODIES NEIL AND BOB for lifesavers buried in a bowl of flour? And what about the oh-so-messy watermelon spit? Thanks to all our judges—you were all true RIPPER KINGS! Revenge of the nerds accompanied by the delicious popcorn served by Student Services, couldn’t have been funnier. The highlight of the week...another first... The Watchmen. Huge concert, huge crowds—YOU FROSH'S FLAKES definatley know how to weather the storm! What would Gaiterization be without Yuk Yuk’s to lighten a day full of all the BISHOP’S 3:16 of registration. Divisional Receptions proved that pros can have a good time even through O’DOYLE RULES in the exam would have been as easy as hell, n’est-ce pas? (Only a few of you blew your cool, screaming “AQ”.) It was all worth it, however, as closing ceremonies proved. Now you can definately say: I came, I saw... I PHELTA THI!

To all those who joined in the fun and to those that made it happen, a million thank yous. Gaiterization 1999 proved with no doubt that PURPLE KICKS ASS! May Gaiterization 1999 be only the beginning of many great memories of BU.

HOMECOMING
Homecoming, an annual celebration where the past meets the present in a weekend filled with excitement, lived up to all expectations in 1999. If the appearance of alumni on our beautiful campus failed to bring a smile to your face, surely the Gaiteers trouncing of the Queen's Golden Gaels in front of more than 3000 cheering fans did. Whether the highlight of the weekend was the performance of Queen's marching band at halftime, the endless number of house parties throughout Lennoxville, or the Saturday night bash at the old Pub, Homecoming 1999 will be remembered by all who attended.

The Only Night in the World

Darkness presents itself...
Constellations on earth,
Road kill in living state,
Icicles walk,
Chickens dance,
80's trance,
Lewinsky's dress, who's a mess?
Carrot man and Frankenstein,
Clue characters, the Snowman,
Jolly Big G,
Dr. Evil,
A few geeks,
And their Prom Queen.

Disco girls prefer house,
Leprechauns prance,
Transvestites dance,
Martha Stewart,
The Underground,
Cowgirls, Roller Darling,
Kaleidoscope kids,
Out of the grave
Toothbrush and toothpaste try to behave...
'Gotta keep moving... Can't stop moving...

Don't forget my friends,
The Pub is only as big as it was yesterday...
After hours? After what hour?
Time is a companion on a long journey home.

Dear Mom,

I was wondering if you could send me money. I need it for books - boy, books are expensive. Bishop's is great.

Love, John

P.S. Can you send down my rain gear as well?

THE TEAM BRINGS HOME SECOND IN THE PROVINCIALS, BUT GOES ON TO WIN THE NATIONAL COMBINED TEAM TITLE AT THE CUASC
By the B.U Ski Team

The Bishop's University Ski Team had yet another season to be proud of. Despite a second place finish, this was possibly the strongest group of competitors the team has seen. If not for scheduling difficulties, which caused many members of the team to miss four of the ten races, it is quite certain that the ski team would have returned from finals with more championship banners. The proof of this is that in the Giant Slalom at finals the BU Ski Team, put three male skiers on the podium at the same time, this has NEVER happened in the Bernard Trotter ski Circuit. Then at nationals, an invitational hosted by the BU Ski Team, we won men's overall, the combined team title as well as individual men's over all, and second in the women's overall. Yes, the BU is still the team to beat in the University circuit.

This was one of the most competitive seasons on the Quebec circuit in recent years and Bishop's team members reached the podium at every race. Every single member of the team played an integral part in making this season a success. The team became a much stronger organization as a result of great efforts made by the general manager and in the future, BU can only hope to see this change move ahead even further. This year the whole team worked hard and was very successful. BU Ski Team will linger ever in our hearts. Thanks for the great years.

BU SKI TEAM HOSTS THE FIRST EVER CANADIAN UNIVERSITY ALPINE SKI CHAMPIONSHIP

This year the BU Ski Team, lead by the initiative of Ian Cruickshank, hosted the first Canadian University Alpine Ski Championship. This event brought together the best varsity alpine skiers together at Stoneham in Quebec City to compete in Slalom and Giant Slalom. The event required months of preparation, yet on a shooting budget the team was able to put on a first class show. All those who were involved had a great time, and the event will continue next year. Special thanks to all of the organizing team, and particularly, Carl Beaudoin, Emily Birrell, Ryan DeBrusk and Anne Rahming. Without the help of these people the event would not have gone on. Look for us next year on all the best sports networks or @ www.cuasc.com.
Team Roundup
The Gaiter football program made strides in Tom Allen’s first full year as head coach, but not enough to get back in the Ontario-Quebec Interuniversity Football Conference playoffs. Bishop’s faced the toughest schedule in Canada with five of their seven games against nationally ranked opponents. They rebounded from a 0-3 start to finish with a 2-5 mark, including a win against the number-one ranked team in the country at the time, the Concordia Stingers. Two members of the Gaiter offensive squad, wide receiver Vincent Begin and running back O.J. Burnett were named to the O-QIFC all-star team. After assessing the season, Allen announced a five-year plan that would culminate with the Gaiters playing in the 2003 Vanier Cup game. The first step of that plan was realized when the school hired Marc Loranger to the position of defensive co-ordinator and recruitment co-ordinator. Loranger is an experienced mentor who was previously the head coach of Mount Allison University and most recently served as a defensive co-ordinator of the highly successful Cegep Vieux-Montreal programme.

Team Roundup:

The women's soccer team enjoyed their finest season as they reached the provincial playoffs for the first time in their history. Head coach Sophie Gailloux's young squad finished third in the Quebec Conference with an impressive 8-4 league record. Their season came to an end when they were eliminated by the nationally ranked Laval Rouge et Or 3-0 in the first round of the playoffs. Erin Patrick became the first Gaiter to be named the CIAU All-Canadian soccer team and was also selected to the conference all-star team along with teammates Jessica Romandi, Alison MacDougall and Meaghan Stevens. With a solid returning nucleus and another strong recruiting class the Gaiters appear on the threshold of their first Quebec championship.

Team Roundup:
The Gaite’s string of three consecutive league championships may have come to an end during the 1999-2000 season, but it no way diminished from an outstanding season for the rookie-laden team. Fifth-year veteran Patrice Lemieux was the workhorse of a team whose roster included seven first-year players. Lemieux capped off an excellent university career by being named the QUBL’s “Player of the Year” as well as being selected to the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union’s All-Canadian Team. Bishop’s started slowly as they dropped their first six league games. But the team regrouped over Christmas and captured eight of their 14 games to finish second in Quebec. Unfortunately, the season came to an abrupt end when they lost a close 70-68 semi-final contest to the McGill Redmen before a packed house at the Mitchell Gymnasium. Joining Lemieux on the QUBL all-star team was rookie Paul Stephens.

The Gaiters advanced to the Quebec University Basketball League finals for the first time under head coach Rod Gilpin. The team fashioned a 10-10 league mark and then reached the finals by virtue of a win over the Concordia Stingers in the first round of the playoffs. Bishop's came to play in the championship game against the first place Laval Univeristy but the Rouge et Or prevailed on their home court as they edged the Gaiters 60-57 in a close contest. Bishop's overall record of 18-14 included wins over several nationally ranked teams including Queens, University of British Columbia, and St. Michael's College (Vt.). Forward Melissa Lemay and point guard Cynthia Hitchcock capped off outstanding seasons by being named the QUBL's first team all-stars.

BISHOP’S WELCOMES BIGGEST CLASS OF THE MILLENNIUM

By Matt Saunders

After two years of stable entrance numbers, Bishop’s University is happily bracing for one of, if not the largest, incoming class ever.

“We are very excited”, says David McBride, Director of Enrollment Management. “Although we do not yet have final confirmation, this year’s freshman class could be the biggest ever in the history of the university.”

Quoting numbers from the end of July, estimates of first year enrollment figures are well over 700 students. If this figure is to remain the same or even increase, the total student population for the 1999-2000 school year will exceed 1900.

“We reached a peak in numbers by the mid-90’s, when suddenly, we were faced with lower-than-expected incoming classes from 1996 until now,” concurs Mr. McBride. “However, as we approach the end of the decade, and the century for that matter, the overall numbers situation is much brighter.”

Of course, more students means more money for the university. And after a number of years of government cuts to provincail education and program restructuring within Bishop’s, the administration is now using a term once forgotten for a time on campus.

Dr. Robert Cook, outgoing Vice-Principal of Academic Affairs, explains. “Earlier this year, because of the success of our Capital Campaign and the university-wide support for a plan to hire new professors, I was beginning to feel cautiously optimistic. I think we are now at the point where we can simply be optimistic and positive at our present position.”

Another reason for the smiling faces around campus this summer is that of the type of students Bishop’s has attracted for the upcoming year. “Yes, this class could be the biggest ever, and yes, it is the most demographically diverse class in our history,” Mr. McBride continues. “There is an added bonus, however: the fact that this class is also the smartest ever to arrive in Lennoxville.”

Jane Wilson, Director of Admissions, supports this claim. “With over 700 new students, 166 will be receiving scholarships”, she notes. “These scholarships run between a minimum of $2,000 and a maximum of $2,000, plus tuition for those with exceptional high school, CEGEP, and OAC averages.” Under Mr. McBride’s portfolio, there have also been four APEX Leadership Scholarships awarded this summer, a prize of $1,000. Although the sheer amount of money being awarded has yet to be calculated, Ms. Wilson is confident that there will be an extra infusion into the scholarship fund from the university fund to allow for such a high number of awards to be offered in the future.

One problem that has come about from the large incoming class is that of finding places to live, both on- and off-campus, for the new students. Mr. McBride is confident that a solution will be reached. “Despite the fact of a residence waiting list of approximately 60 students, the university is looking into gaining access to a number of rooms in the Champlain College residences which are just minutes away from campus. Furthermore, we have hired a full-time agent to organize, rate, and facilitate all available off-campus housing for those not able to live in one of our six residences.”

Regardless of class size and history, first year students coming to Lennoxville in September can expect to become immersed in the “Bishop’s Experience” as soon as they set foot on campus. Along with the historic field day, comedians, and a hypnotist Orientation Week ’99 is proud to present Canada’s own, The Watchmen, in an outdoor concert for the entire university community.

Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me
Homecoming '99 fails to disappoint

Even Gaiters get in spirit posting first victory of season

By ARASH MADANI

Not on homecoming. Not against Queen's.
The Gaiters weren't going to crumble like that—they gave their supporters a little to cheer about. Those 3,511 who came saw a yet-to-be-proven Bishop's squad pound the hapless, hopeless, useless Queen's Golden Gaels 35-14.

They saw what a Wing-T offense could do against the new Carleton Ravens of the OUIQC. And they saw O.J. Bursett, a healthy two-time All-Canadian running back, round the troops and let them jump on his back to victory.

That first, thus far, in '99.
The old Coulter Field mystique came out Saturday—the one where the Gaels actually win. Now at 1-3, the offensive firepower that was waiting to explode was set off.
The full array of weapons finally showed up, giving the Gaels a multi-dimensional look.

It wasn't just run, run, run on Saturday. And fittingly, for the alumni who witnessed the old pass-oriented offense during their days at 111, the Gaels went back to the passing attack.

Back to the air for more yards passing than a pair of earlier games combined. In their 182 yards distributed to the air, the Gaiters truly gave Bishop's a homecoming.

"It's definitely a good feeling," said wideout Vinnie Bagnard as the final seconds ticked off. "We've gotta get used to winning again.

Against Queen's, that's pretty easy. Now at 0-4, the Golden Gaels looked every bit as inexperienced and weak as they were predicted to be.

As important a victory this was for the Gaels— to finally get the first win of the season— and as key as Friday night's game at McGill will be, the true test of whether or not Bishop's can consider itself a legitimate threat will be measured during the final three weeks of the regular season. Even at Western October 16, then home to Laval and Concordia.

Against the paltry Gaels offense, Bursett had no problems making a case toward becoming All-Canadian all he did was rush for 194 yards and a touchdown.

In the end it was decided that more money should be spent on providing counselling and tutoring than administering a program.

Funding key issue at WPP

BY CARLA OLIVEIRA

A decade and a half after its inception, the Writing Proficiency Program has a new director at the helm.

Mirke Koppen-Tucker, who has been a fixture at the writing center since its founding in 1985, resigned earlier this fall following a series of events that among other factors included budgetary cuts to the Writing Proficiency Program (WPP).

"My main frustration for the last two years has been my inability to innovate and further develop the Writing Proficiency Program," said Koppen-Tucker in her farewell statement.

"The campus has obtained documents revealing some of her displeasure with the WPP.

"Working conditions have not been addressed. Instead of moving into a more dynamic and creative situation in line with other similar programs elsewhere, we were reduced to a Sweeney-like pency-punching and belt-tightening," she continued.

"I have obvious disgust and frustration with the shabby treatment that I have received and my being prevented from developing the Writing Proficiency Programme in no way is a reflection of the quality of work performed in the Writing Center."

In light of recent budgetary re-earlier this winter the Senate Planning Committee (SPC), which was instructed to cut hundreds of thousands of dollars from the academic budget, decided that the amount of money going to the coordinator of the Writing Proficiency Program should be reduced to the equivalent of the pay for four part-time courses.

"Regarding the salary issue: I simply held the University to the promise made to me last year when my salary was practically cut in half and my term reduced from 12 to nine months," added Koppenthe next year or so more money could be available for the WPP.

Currently there are three sutors employed to help the 51 students enrolled in the WPP class in small groups (a ratio of three students to one tutor).

"The Senate Planning Committee was very clear what the budget of the writing centre was aimed for," said Dr. Jonathan Rittenhouse. "We basically said that the amount of money going for the coordinator was to be diminished..."
New Plays ‘99 a hit

B.U. Drama Department amazes crowd yet again

Night A

BY BRADLEE TEBAH

The New Plays Festival of 1999 commenced on September 28 with John, played by Scott Barker, sitting in the middle of the stage with all of the lights on. It became slightly obvious that a mistake had been made when every other time he was alone on stage, he was under only a spotlight. Despite that small error, Zealand, N.B. was a smash hit with the audience. The play was filled with laughs, especially when Jamie, played by Matt Saunders, was shot in the derriere by an angry apple farmer. The actors realistically portrayed small-town hicks, with Sarah Mitton as the controlling girlfriend and Nathaniel O'Toole as the dim-witted younger brother. Due to a well-written script, farm humour, and hilarious arguments between best friends, the play was a definite hit!

Next on the bill was Women and Wallace, written by Jonathan Marc Sherman. Despite the fact that the play opened with Wallace, Matt Biancosi, throwing a tomato at Nina, Apriel Beene, it turned out to be quite captivating. The audience watches Wallace as he grows up, having returned from school in the first grade to see his mother dead on the kitchen floor. Each stage in his life is portrayed to the audience through an experience with a different woman. According to all the female characters were seated off to the sides throughout the play. Except for when the grandmother, played by Juliet Fenlon, sat down on a broken chair, the funniest moment was an exchange between Wallace and one of his girl friends. Wallace says, "Do you mind if I kiss you?" She responds with, "My, the wine works fast," and he, jumping on her says, "No, I do."

Festival Night B

BY FRED GILLESPIE

There are many reasons why every Bishop's student should attend New Plays. The Drama Department always present plays written, directed, and acted entirely by Bishop's students. We should all support this group of talented actors, playwrights, and backstage hands.

Poet in a Bottle, written and directed by Nick Haraszty and Peter Zaremba, was hilarious. The dialogue is intelligent and witty. It is the story of the devil throwing a wrench in a poetry contest. The direction was simply amazing, especially given the great number of cast members present on stage at the same time. This is great stuff, and the audience responded to it well. Kevin MacMillan delivered a performance filled with mischievous energy and believable appeal. His devil was no small feat considering the three week time frame in which they had to work.

Stained Glass Window is a solid play exploring social frameworks of behaviour in a way that is very insightful. Andy Hodges's script has many layers, and Sarah Bradyn, the director, helped to highlight many of them. On top of an excellent script and great direction, the actors also distinguished themselves. The cast shone. They represented human behavior in a way that felt a bit exaggerated at times, but proved to be right on the mark, and profoundly indicative of our neuroses. Forbes Campbell in particular, gave his character the dead-on seriousness necessary to give his sometimes odd reflections the weight they deserve.

Jen Heale's Pushing Up Daisies presents a powerfully touching retrospect look at a childhood friendship and its impact on a woman's life. Becky Yetman and Kelly Sir play's success lies in a combination of writing, acting, and direction that makes an audience feel something. It didn't matter that the title and some foreshadowing made the end somewhat foreseeable; what was important was not guessing what would happen next, but finding a way to get there. Once again, a group of students has demonstrated that we have reason to be extremely proud of our Drama Department. New Plays demonstrated great craft and talent. Anyone who didn't see them should regret it and vow to attend New Plays 2000 at Theatre Activ next semester. This was a celebration of creativity.

Night C

BY JAIME MURDOCH

New Plays—man, I hope you got a chance to see them. I love good drama, and although my exposure to stage performances has been primarily in high school, I had an utterly positive feeling about night C. The entertainment on Thursday night was opened by the New Plays coordinators who brought a slice of laughter to the theatre right away. I knew from then on that it was going to be time well spent. From Darren Smith’s delightfully humorous crapky paranoia and captivating ballistic fit, to Jen Stobo’s overall “wiggled-out” nature, Steve Agnew’s Some People was definitely “all good.”

Thanks for Coming Out was almost mind-blowing. Andy Wehrsnon dazzled audience members with his piece. What seemed to be a quaint little boy-meets-girl skit turned into a giant fiasco involving Hecklers, all five of whom were stupendous. Each actor within the audience and on the stage acted with gusto, practically showing their personalities in your face during the marathon of arguments. The concept of using the entire theatre—nothing but seats within the audience was awesomely refreshing. The couch was great too.

Be sure to catch these upcoming events in the Studio Theatre: The Odd Couple by Neil Simon October 20-24, and William Inge’s Picnic November 10-14.

It’s not too late!

Calling all musicians: Join the Bishop’s University Concert Band! You need not be a music student—everyone is welcome! If you’re interested in fun, informal weekly rehearsals on Thursday nights, contact Aaron Sprent at 823-2645 or email a sprent@bishopsu.ca.

Chaos erupts as floor of Conley residence collapses

Party goes unhurt, “sing school song” following the Saturday night disaster

By Jen O'BRIEN and Sarah PULFRED

It all starts with, “So, what's your sign? You're a Gemini? Oh, groovy, I feel the vibes...” Now sign the lease.

There are my friends, the shifty lines of the dirtiest landlord in Lennoxville whose name rhymes with ‘thumb tacks’. Any of you who have ever lived on or around Conley Street know to whom we are referring.

He told us that he saved the houses he rents out so they wouldn’t be turned into some sort of elaborate condominium, which may have actually housed us in comfort, but really he’s just pawning off feester holes to poor naive children. You may be asking yourself, ‘from whence spawn these cursed creations?’ All we’ve lived in the pit of despair. Its name: 10 CONLEY.

At the beginning of last year, we traveled from the bus station making casual banter with the friendly cab driver about how cute our first house was, and how excited we were to move in.

As he pulled into the long driveway, we heard a snicker from the front seat and thought, ‘inside, little man.’ That is, until we got out of the cab and saw the garbage mountain blocking the entrance to our house and noticed a large raccoon chowing down. We put this event behind us, and moved in.

A few weeks into the school year, we noticed a peculiar odor of death wafting out of the crevices of the walls into our living room. After about three weeks of vigorous attempts to connect the landlord, a man showed up, took the wall apart, put it back together, said he found nothing, and the smell vanished with him. We still ask ourselves where he buried the poor soul.

One day, a few months after this event we decided to make some chicken wings in the oven. Again, another nauseating stench of dead animal and urine engulfed our home. We had to evacuate. When it finally came, he took apart the stove and removed, by the tail, a charred mouse.

These are just a few of the many stories we have accumulated after a year of living in a dirty trailer. These details lead up to the main event on January 16, 2000, when 10 Conley finally fell apart. What began as a night of innocent after-bar fun quickly turned ugly.

We were all minding our own business, engaging in stimulating conversation, when all of a sudden, CRACK, CRACK, SMASH... WE ALL FALL DOWN. It was mass chaos as the whole living room floor gave way around us. There were shrieks of horror as people witnessed their comrades being sucked into the uncharted earth below.

People attempted to scramble up to safety, but were discouraged as they continuously rolled down the incline into a pile of helpless humans which continued to accumulate in the large crevice six feet below what had been the living room.

People linked arms and tried to pull their friends out of the pit in a valiant attempt to save them, others shrieked as the rather large ball of people dislodged itself from the wall and came crashing down.

Now, one might think that these events would put a damper on such a gathering, but even though half the party-goers were confined to the kitchen due to the fact that the only exit was through the newly-renovated swimming pool of a living room, we all banded together in a roaring rendition of our school song and chuckled.

What will become of the rotten remains of 10 Conley? Only the wrecking ball will tell. Before leaving last Saturday night, we surveyed the rubble, and noticed that our old living room had been put together with putty, a couple of rotted four and twenty frequently suspended by the grace of God.

We must now reiterate the words of the shivering scout who noticed the CRACK, CRACK, SMASH... WE ALL FALL DOWN: “Those are the charms of living in the country.”

CJM3Q gets new station manager

By Jamie S. KORIU

“The transition from the Sheppard administration to the Henning administration was not one which went smoothly and during his year at the post many of the loyal CJM3Q volunteers left the organization due to conflicts of personality, interests and circumstances,” stated a former executive member. “There was always tension in the air when I walked into the office. It wasn’t fun anymore.” Others were less pessimistic about Mr. Henning’s leadership: “Wayne worked really hard to get the station where it is today. CJM3Q has changed for the better under him, despite all of the negativity,” said Mr. By, student Corporation Representative.

The Henning era at CJM3Q has come to an end, leaving Bishop’s Radio at another crossroads. Taking the helm is Nicholas Mayes, a Concordia graduate who's road to Lennoxville has been a long and trying journey. After a failed attempt at working from a base in Canada, Mayes headed to the former Yugoslavia and the rest of the Balkans to engage in a research project. "It was like being on the Antarctic," Mayes said. "I was with the 98 Ice Storm, which was a real pain," said Mayes. When he finally returned to his native Ottawa area he was dealt a large blow — one which would lead him to change his future. "My father fell ill," stated Mayes. "I wanted to do my Masters, but with dad falling ill I had to reassess my priorities. So I enrolled at Algonaug College and did a hands on radio and telecommunications training."
Hypothermania 2000 an overall success

SRC looks to break even financially

By Meghan O'Hara and Jennifer Watson

With Frost Week quickly forgotten, Bishop's University is tentatively set to join the APBU (Association professors Bishop's University).

"There is very little I can say about this at the moment because it is in the hands of the ministry of labour," said the head of the APBU, Loretta Cernits.

Cernits went on to add that the part-time professors have gone and organized themselves with or without the help of the existing full-time faculty union. "Whether or not they decided to join the APBU they were going to unionize," Cernits added.

"It's been a long time coming," said part-time professor Davie Westmen. When asked about why the part-time faculty feel it is in their best interests to unionize, Westmen explained, "We feel excluded." He went on to add that "salary is much lower compared to other universities across the country."

Salary, although a major factor, is not the only concern that the part-time professors have. "We have no job security at all. We teach one semester and have no idea if we will be teaching in the future," Westmen added. Cernits also added that "their work has been very unstable."

"Part-time is a misery," said Westmen. "We are teaching just as much as full-time professors."

The part-time union will not be on an equal level with the APBU, but rather a component of the union. The members will negotiate their own collective agreements with the administration. When asked if the APBU supported the part-time union Cernits responded simply "Oh yes."

As it currently stands, the part-time professors have made a formal application to the minister of labour to receive status as labour organization. When and if this status is received they will be in a position to collectively negotiate their contract with the administration. As it now stands part-time professors must negotiate their contract individually.

Saturday afternoon's brain accumulation of sales over $800 before the Gaiters' basketball games. Due to low temperatures, however, the bar was unable to remain open later in the evening. Still, specials continued at the Loth that evening.

Financial problems for the event are not available. However, profits and expenses are expected to be identical between the SRC and the University. The SRC wanted to point out that generating a profit was not the focus of the winter carnival. Rather, the weekend was to integrate the community.

Over $150 was made in sales of hot dogs alone. Sntiff to say that this money is a well received bonus to all SRC clubs involved.

On Saturday night, there were over 300 children in attendance. These great numbers were a result of cooperation between Big and Best Buddies, who sponsored various activities at the Pub.

"We are very appreciative of Big and Best Buddies for their planning and involvement," Mr. Wood continued. As well, the SRC wants to extend thanks to the children's assistant team who were in charge of the midway. The twenty night rides from 11 am to 1:30 pm were always full.

Mr. Wood and David Hamilton, the SRC Director of Finance, were pleased with the overall result of the weekend's activities. This year's SRC will propose to continue the new Hypothermania tradition to next year's council in place of the upcoming elections at the end of the month.

Part-time faculty to unionize

By Matt Saunders

We are all Gaiters in Faire, auntie, and uncle that is, "some suggest." Freshmen, 15, 8097.

Secret of your degree being a three-year effort, a two-year success, a five-year fun-time or a six-year spectacle, where all Gaiters are to feel above our heads. We came to Lennoxville in search of something, anything, that would make us something more. Did despair you hear? We remember seeing the mothers, the fathers, and the censure place that bell adays. We move into the south, the shaking of mornings' nurses' hands, the joy in having a boy that locked for our courses and the sudden realization of the friendship through thought that the gas station sold beer. Kings, kings, come short, kings. Yet did not like the Las Vegas sign (right).

The hour that first morning, after then motion. The Fresh Group selection. 420, 68 N I O U I, Beef Curtains. What the hell? Painted Noodleshell screaming your name at Commercial, calling you to task.

You picked your courses (or they picked you). You win in that thing called a sports complex (where we use the term "fun") and the team was down to 15 when you take their bread. Then, you're running down you back, the pounding of your heart before echoing through your head.

You do not want to be there. No one does.

Field Day, a 3-hour party session at the football field, every last for poets, judges, and nakedness, nakedness everywhere (women who were smoking all across the highway). Comrades, yesterday's, in blue, and the now niezbędn Poli relationship. "The hoops, Rogers and women bodies ever seen are not to good together. The birds of the funsten. Dew's was a mini to this at its supposed potential only to leave you with so many meals of Cerf.

In time, your vision was expanded, The Golden Lion and that first up of Puke ("You can't keep it with you, Bud."). The patio at the Four Corners, the powdercoated bars, the back door makes. And if there wasn't room for you, there was the Grid, the dirt in one corner, value results in the kitchen. The looking that day was all over, instead of in bags.

Message from the Principal

As a member of the Class of 2000 you have an unprecedented distinction—you are the first graduating class of the new millennium and as such are poised to help build the knowledge-based economy of which we hear so much today. You also have the distinction of joining 9000 other Bishop’s graduates who, like you have enjoyed what we commonly refer to as the “Bishop’s experience”. Our founder’s intention was “to offer the country at large the blessings of a sound and liberal education” and each generation of graduates has redefined these words into a contemporary context. However, important principles of the past remain. Your education, I hope, has been broadly based and is one that has and will continue to stimulate thinking, questioning and evaluating. I also hope the personal attention you received at Bishop’s will guide you towards a sense of community and responsibility as an educated citizen wherever you choose to live.

Like Bishop’s alumni before you, members of the Class of 2000 will become valued leaders of our society in arts, law, medicine, business, education and communications. Whatever your future holds I hope you will look back to your time at Bishop’s and realize your education not only helped prepare you to make a living but also prepared you to make a good life. I wish each and every one of you much good health, happiness and success and I congratulate you on your graduation from Bishop’s University. Don’t forget to come back; Homecoming is meant for you.

Principal Janyne Hodder
Message from the SRC President

Before my first year of university, one worry plagued my 19 year old mind “What would my roommate be like?” I worried throughout the summer about meeting her.

Then, on the first day of school, my new roommate sat me down and plainly told me we should have separate friends. It was a crushing blow. But, little did she know, a long standing truth at Bishop’s would prevent her plans. At Bishop’s nobody has “separate friends”. At Bishop’s, we’re all connected. I have discovered that this connection is what keeps us distinct.

Each year we get “The Quad” to display this truth. Bishop’s may bring to mind small classes, good professors, and a picturesque campus, but the experience connects us. From Rallen debates in Centennial to Maestro Fresh Wes concerts in the pub, from purple Jesus parties to national championships, our memories will keep us connected band of Bishop’s gaiters long past graduation.

And so to my roommate of first year who eventually succumbed to my charms, I have but one message: There are no separatists at Bishop’s.

Editors Message:

It is commonly said that history repeats itself. Our few years that we spend here at Bishop's is a snap shot of a time and space that has been, and will be paralleled many times. The photos in this years Quad have been compiled as your snap shot of the 1999-2000 life and times, your history, and your memoirs of the ever enduring tradition that is synonymous to Bishop's University.

As months turn into years and we all proceed down our respective pathways of life, I know that we can all be strong as our alma mater, and the spirit, the camaraderie, and the higher learning that was so predominant in our education here.

This years edition of the Quad would not have been possible without the help of a very dedicated staff. I would like to thank Ryan Shillington, Jennifer Nadeau, Melissa Repoli for thier dedication and perseverance to repeatedly ask for many of the photos that were rather difficult to come upon. Sonia Fisher for the many quotes and poems that tie this book together. Heather Crook, Holly Mackenzie, Ithia Morris, Marcus Gordon, Emily Bennett for their opinions, ideas, folio tabs, and copy. Mieke Tilley for her patience and computer background. This book could not have been possible without thier dedication and many great ideas to keep the tradition with a new edge. Lastly, I would like to thank Janice Cook, Jennifer LaPlante, Kristina Black, Jody Levoy and Sonia Fisher for many of the great ideas and memories from quite possibly the best time of our lives.

We, the RA team, had high ambitions for this year: to keep the bottle privilege all year long. Not a small feat for a rez who’s name had been tarnished in previous years. As it turned out, this year surpassed all our expectations. With five weeks to go, we still have the privilege, no one was evicted and everyone seems to be having a great year.

Things to remember: Bowling x2, RA auction, pre-football BBQs, Mack alumni party (!), how many people can fit in Charles’ room (answer: over 90), sausage fest, tuna fest, Rez cup, Szmieg (?) and many more...

It says a lot, I think, that our biggest incidents all had a comical aspect to them. Whether it was a resident losing its bum virginity to the arches (sweet mother of God!) or another “gratifying himself in the lobby”-as one witness put it, the good thing was that there was an amusing aspect in most of your antics. For that I thank everyone because it certainly made my year most enjoyable! Je vous embrasses connards.

Pollack Wannabees
The year has quickly gone and we find ourselves at the end of a truly unique experience. We leave for the summer with great memories, great friends, and maybe even some couch cushions.

Since we are so closely connected to Norton, many of our activities are done with them. This, however, does not mean that Pollack is not a separate entity! We’ve enjoyed such things as Secret Santas, late night movies, Assassins Week, Whitter’s Women, Duckie’s Dames, Ken’s famous mouse-capade, fighting the mondex laundry machines, exchange students from all over, the tower of couches, music from the 80s to Les Miserable to Celtic tunes, Dawson’s Creek, 3rd floor girls always on top, the decorations of 1st floor and much, much more. Pollack truly was the place to be!

Pollack is also a popular choice for guys...how could it not be with the all girls floor upstairs? With only one washroom on 3rd floor Pollack, it remains the only non-cooed place on campus.

We thank everyone for a fantastic year...we couldn’t have asked for a better group of residents. Best wishes to all.
ABBOTT

The 1999-2000 year was a great success in Abbott! We hope that the last bunch of Abbotteers of the Millennium lived an unforgettable Bishop's Experience. May the memories of Homecoming, Assassin's Week, the Shoehorn Snatcher, fun nights with friends, pizza parties, procrastinating and cramming, residents on fire, etc...forever live in your minds! Best of luck in your future endeavors! Raise a toast to BU!

In Memory of Stewart Graham

“I'd like to be the sort of friend that you have been to me.
I’d like to be the help
that you’ve been always glad to be.
I’d like to mean as much to you each minute of the day.
As you have meant, old friend of mine to me along the way.”
Edgar A. Guest

‘Nuff said.
Our love now and always
