FROSH WEEK

For an entering student, participating in Orientation Week is crucial, as it introduces one to the Bishop’s community, and marks the beginning of an amazing experience. This year, Anne Chatelain and myself had the pleasure of organizing the week’s activities, which were only made better with the enthusiasm demonstrated by all the participants and volunteers. As per tradition, the highlights of the week included the dirtiest field day I can remember, and an amazing Treblecharger concert. It is our hope that we were able to introduce the Bishop’s “experience” to all that participated and that they will do the same for students to come. Anne and I would like to sincerely thank Jamie Allison for his selfless contributions during the week, the Buildings and Grounds department for all their hard work, the office of the Dean of Student Affairs, all who are involved with the SRC (especially Millard and Camino), and finally all the volunteers and leaders who made the week possible. Thanks everyone, for a fuzzy, but unforgettable week.

Tim Taylor and Anne Chatelain,
Orientation Week 2001 Co-chairs.

FIRST SEMESTER
Hey, I'm not a Golden Gael, Stinger, or a Redman, and between you and me, just what the hell is a Gee-Gee?
Yes, I DO know Harvey, Bill and Jaime - They're my profs.
I live in Lennox Vegas, not Sherbrooke. I sing the school song, and I think Reed Street is a classy neighbourhood.
I believe in universities, not degree factories, a friendly campus, not a nameless mass and that Amature Night is a proud and noble place to spend a Sunday evening.
I can safely walk the arches after a night on the town, and a walk down College Street at 9:30 Sunday morning is NOT a walk of shame.
Smaller IS better, Purple IS a nice colour and it's pronounced poutine, not "POO-TEEN", poutine.
Bishop's is the smallest school in the CIS, the coldest place on earth, and the best part of North America.
My name is ____________, and I AM A GAITER!
I congratulate each and every one of you as you leave Bishop’s as part of the Class of 2002. You are joining a very distinguished group of people who have gone before you, now numbering over 9,000 alumni who can be found in all parts of the world and in every possible context.

The founders of Bishop’s University had a goal of “offering to the country at large the benefits of a sound and liberal education”. Each generation of Bishop’s students has defined these words in light of their own experience, but the basic premise remains: a broadly-based education which teaches how to think, how to question, how to draw the best out of not only the academic, but also the social, cultural and athletic opportunities presented to you during your life as an undergraduate. With the knowledge and skills you have acquired here, you are equipped to go anywhere, and to succeed at whatever you undertake. You will be able not only to earn your living, but, more importantly, to live life well.

I wish you good luck, good health, and much happiness in whatever life you choose, and I hope you will return to Bishop’s often – you will always be part of the family.

Principal Janyne Hodder
Message from the SRC President

To the outside observer, life at Bishop’s probably doesn’t make much sense. Really though, if you take a step back from our “Bishop’s Experience” and look at things objectively, they do seem a bit odd. Basically, a community with only one real intersection becomes the main focal point of our lives for about 4 years. We give back to this community; we brag about it to people that aren’t a part of it and we celebrate it with those who are—and, in the process of all of this, we become a part of it. You could argue that this is the only real way to account for things like: Fans storming the court when the basketball team gets a victory to make their record 3 wins, 11 losses. Singing the school song like some sort of national anthem. Being a part of clubs, teams, societies and other associations that occupy our time outside of class. All of these things happen because they are a way for us to be a part of a community that means a lot to us and shape an incredible experience.

This yearbook, for Bishop’s students, is a piece of our Bishop’s experience. As we look through this book now, next year, even someday down the road with our kids; hopefully it will help us remember the times we had here in Lennoxville and the people that made those times as great as they were. Because, in the end, these people are the real strength of this community and the experience that it gives us. Although we’ll sometimes look through this yearbook to see ourselves, and to show others what we did; more often than not we’ll look to this book as a reminder of the people that made our good times great and our hard times bearable.

This yearbook offers us a physical reminder of some of the best times of our lives and, most importantly, reminds us of the people that made those times the best they could be. Our Bishop’s experience will, as the song says, linger ever in our hearts and, hopefully, is something we can be proud of. As for the people that helped make this experience… to them, at some point we must say goodnight—but we must never say goodbye.

Dave Millard
Bishop's students have a plethora of options to choose from when their munchies manifest into a seemingly life or death plight: ranging from poutine to chicken poutine to western poutine to pizza to pizza poutine and so on. With so much choice and so little time, we decided to have a race. An Amazing Race.

Six restaurants were chosen: The Village Grec, Ali Baba Pizza, Pita Pit, Jerry's Pizzeria, Pizza Mivan and Au Roi de la Coq Roti. According to co-coordinator Dan Wallace, "Based on my three years of experience, I..." expect a two-horse race between Grec and Jerry’s. The race will probably come down to whoever brings their ‘A’ game.” In order to create a more level playing field, and reflect a more diverse dining experience, taste of the food as well as the service provided (phone service and delivery guy) were included in the final criteria.

Mike Leonard, Jamie Allison, Matt Stewart, Keith Maddison, Rick Lamanna, Tim Taylor, Tony McDonald, co-coordinators Dan Wallace and David Millard as well as the man they call “Jim” all undertook the important tasks of calling, ordering, waiting and sampling. Preparations included the design and creation of medals constructed out of unused poutine containers.

Final Results

Village Grec.........................19.5/21
(gyro and mini poutine for $6.95)

Au Roi de la Coq Roti.............18.5/21
(Quarter chicken w/fries, gravy, bun and coleslaw for $8.50)

Jerry’s Pizzeria....................17/21
(2 chicken subs for $16)

Ali Baba Pizza.....................16/21
(2 10-inch pepperoni pizzas for $11)

Pita Pit...........................10.5/21
(2 chicken pitas for $12 + $2 delivery - 15% BU discount)

Pizza Mivan.......................5/21
(2 10-inch quebecois pizzas w/ 2 cans of pop for $12.50)
Painting the arches purple not happening, despite hopes of SRC

By Shawn McLeish

The golden arches of MacDonald's can be seen from great distances, and represent quality food and friendly service at an affordable price. Bishop's University has its own set of arches, which serve as the gate to "Gaiter country" and the best school in all of Canada. However, our arches are not a bright beacon of colour, but rather are painted a dismal green.

Phil Camino, our SRC vice president of finance, decided to take on the project of trying to get the bridge changed from green, to our school color purple. His efforts began with an email to the mayor of Lennoxville with his request.

What was followed was a meeting with the "Town and Gown" committee in which Dave Millard, SRC president, presented the proposal since Camino was unable to attend. The "Town and Gown" committee acts as the liaison between the town of Lennoxville and the university. Some of the individuals who sit on this committee are Millard, the Lennoxville mayor and Bishop's Dean of Student Affairs.

The committee rejected the idea, and said that the issue had to go through the Provincial Government. Camino was not discouraged, and talked to the Transport Region in the Township area. From there he found out that the bridge had to remain green through a set bylaw, and could not be painted purple.

Camino believes that re-painting the bridge would disguise the multitude of graffiti already covering it. Scratched phrases like "Kill McGill" do not offer a positive image of our school to new students, their parents and campus visitors.

Camino has heard from parents that the sight of the arches did not impress them as the first thing they saw when arriving at Bishop's University. Camino thinks that painting the arches purple would create a nice entrance to the school and show off our university's pride. As far as the graffiti problem, he feels it has created a snowballing effect. Since there is already graffiti scribbled on the arches, people will continue to write more on top of it. If we re-paint the arches purple and they are clean of graffiti, however, people will be unlikely to put more back on. Camino would still like to see this project take action; perhaps it can be something future SRC members can work on.

It will take help from high places for this task to be accomplished.

Fridays at the Loft: make it work

By Meghan O'Hara

Recent rumors circulating campus have many students questioning the future of Friday nights at the Loft. However, despite the consistently low turnout, the bar will remain open for the time being.

"Fridays have been a historically unprofitable night," states Phil Camino, SRC director of finance. According to Camino, although the Loft's primary concern is profits, a recent series of violent episodes in local Sherbrooke bars has meant that "it has become priority for the SRC to provide a safe alternative for those Bishop's students wishing to go out."

"The Loft is undergoing an experimental stage for the next couple of weeks, before we can decide on the future of Friday night openings" continues Camino.

The Loft needs to start filling up on Friday nights, so come out and support your school and enjoy some of the new specials and good events. The two third year students shown above enjoy their Fridays out, so can you!
Truth or tale? Bishop's famous rumours confirmed

You know what they say about small schools - everyone knows everything about everyone and everything. Bishop's is certainly no exception to this rule. Going hand in hand with this is the idea that rumours travel fast and are abundant.

Whether the rumours are about people, places, facts, or events there is no shortage of them at Bishop's. I have spent some time looking into a number of rumours that have been tossed around about Bishop's to determine their true validity. Whether we bring about them or laugh in shame about them, we all talk about them. Below is a list that may clear some things up for you.

Rumour: Bishop's made Dave Letterman's top ten list for one of the best places to party on Halloween. Truth: Bishop's ranked number three in 1996. If this is your first year at B.U. you will soon realize why this is true.

Rumour: Bishop's has the highest rate of sexually transmitted diseases of all Canadian universities. Truth: This is not true as confirmed by Health Services. However, STDs are at epidemic levels across the country and affect the 18-24 age group the most, this includes most B.U. students.

Rumour: The male-female ratio at B.U. equals two girls for every guy. Truth: Keep dreaming boys! The B.U. population is 45 percent male and 55 percent female as confirmed by the liaison office. However, the English Language Summer School that takes over the campus and the town from June to August attracts over 400 students 70 percent of whom are female and 30 percent male. Is there anyone else attending school anyone?

Rumour: The Greek invented poshite. Truth: Take it straight - it's an Irish restaurant, in an English town, with an Asian owner.

Rumour: The Hell's Angels used to line the football field and roar the engines as the team made their way onto their field. Truth: Why can't the team just get that kind of support anywhere? Well, if they tried that now, the marshals would kick them off the field.

Rumour: Initiation to become a member of the Hell's was to drive their bikes over the arches. Truth: This myth is spurious. They were mistaken to punctuate the times of any driver who dared to attempt to make it over. This also prevents Bishop's students from "walking the arches" a popular tradition that however, becoming less and less popular as the years pass. One reason may be the belief that on the first evening on Frosh Week 1995, a first year student attempted to walk the arches but instead ended up "sliding" them. He severely seared his buttocks and as a result could not sit properly for a month. This is also true.

Rumour: It is illegal to in-line skate in Lennoxville. Truth: Take your word for it, they will put you on the light and sirens, and pull you over. The ticket for this serious offence is $80.00.

Rumour: Until the late sixties/early seventies all Bishop's students were required to wear the black academic gowns to class everyday. Truth: The gowns were part of the school uniform. The best part of this rumour involves what they really wore under those gowns.

Rumour: There is a ghost that haunts Divinity House and one that haunts McGreer. The ghost of Divinity, once a residence building, is believed by some to be the ghost of a girl who hung herself there. The ghost of McGreer is supposedly that of Rev. John Hoffman McGreer, former principal of the school. Truth: No one could confirm the existence of the ghost of Divinity or the ghost of McGreer. But let's talk about Mr. McGreer. The former principal died a mysterious death in 1947 after twenty-five years of service to the school. His death was accidental and occurred on the railroad tracks right here in Lennoxville. The body was not found for months. He died in December and his body was not found until the spring. All of this was confirmed by Bishop's archivist.

Rumour: Michael Ondaatje, author of The English Patient was once a Bishop's student. Truth: But that's not all! He ran out of money some years ago and was going to leave Lennoxville. However, one of his professors offered to take him in and give him room and board at no cost. Ondaatje ended up having an affair with his wife. Truth: There is more! The professor apparently did not have a problem with this affair as he was separated from his wife. Ondaatje ended up having a child with this woman and the professor is the child's godparent. Wow, that makes a better story than The English Patient. This story is often told to students who takes classes with Dr. McLean, chair of the English department, when they study Ondaatje's work.

Rumour: Bishop's was featured in the marijuana-focused magazine High Times. Truth: It is a fact that "Bishop's University in the town of Lennoxville," was included on the magazine's honour roll but is it true that marijuana of high quality comes from here? I wouldn't know!

Keep gossiping kids, when it starts to snow there's not much else to do in Lennoxville! Thank you all my "sources" I can assure you we are reliable.

Quotes:

"It tasted like home." - a first year attendee.

"Thanks to Maron Esimbire and Meghan Mosher for the use of their oven, four turkeys need a lot of oven's." - Suz Pleiss.

Context of quote: The meal was great and it is just like Pleiss to thanks others for their help!

Theatre Activ 2002 proved once again that having a blast with your friends can result in quality entertainment. Coordinated by Kelley Sirois and Amelie Lamoureux, the festival included nine plays presented over six nights - all directed, designed, managed and acted by students. Bob (directed by Amy Vallis) opened Night A of the festival, followed by A Coin (Sanjin Muftic and Melanie Rada) and Tony Danza’s Super Happy Fun Hour Extravaganza (Kelley Sirois). Night B featured a puppet show entitled The Artist Known as Hunger, succeeded by 689 Spadina Avenue (Jesse Maclean) and The Illegal Playwriting Class (Parker Eye). Finally, Night C closed Theatre Activ with God (Becky Yetman and Amanda McCoy), Laundry & Bourbon (Greg Flynn) and This is a Play (Dana Price and Chris Leveille). To a fantabulous job done by everyone, a heaping pile of fond memories, our hard work and dedication, our nerve and verve, our sweet and satisfying end results and most especially, to our exalted audience - CHEERS!
what you see and hear before you tonight is the end result of a process that began with only one student and their work for a better grade in the playwriting course to reach this performance, their script has been read, critiqued, cut, drafted, analyzed and highlighted...consequently, it has gone past professors, critics, directors, lighting designers, stage managers and actors...as coordinators of this festival it has been our honour to gather all these people together to bring forth to create the visions of the nine playwrights...
through our organization, we have had special contributions from certain talented and dedicated people - george, michael, johnny, the two melanies, benoit as well as jenn jarvis, jenn blanche, libby young and helene eusanio...we are extremely grateful for their support before you enjoy the show, we would like to thank our families and friends for their support and extend all the performances of New Plays 2001 to the childhood spirit, young and old...may playing never cease and its dreaming never find limits, all in a world at peace, as we find on our stage.

Tom Allen: The end of an era

On December 31, 2001 Tom Allen officially retired as the athletic coordinator and head coach of the football team for Bishop's University. This retirement ended a five decade relationship with Bishop's Football. Tom arrived in 1967 to become a Gaiter, began coaching in 1979 and had survived for four decades since.

"Experience is the biggest thing Tom brings to the team. He faced many of the teams and coaches in his time here and he know exactly what to expect. Tom is the best at formulating a game plan and getting his players physically and mentally ready for kick-off."
-Phil Camino Gaiter starring halfback

"What has made Tom so special is that he's kept up the values for Bishop's education and the tradition of making student athletes decent people. During his time, he's broadened the scope of sports for students and continues to develop decent people."
-Bruce Coulter former Athletic director and head football coach

Win or Lose, We Still Booze
Men's Rugby
Bishop’s women’s soccer had another successful season this year ending with 9 wins, 3 losses, and 2 ties lead by new head coach Mike Richardson. For the fourth consecutive year Bishop’s was knocked out by Laval in the semi-finals.

Five gaiters were named to the 2001 QSSF all-star team:
Marieve Bellerose
Josiane Bolduc
Maryka Meunier
Erin Patrick
Meaghan Stevens

Women's Volleyball

This year was the third year that the women's volleyball team has been in existence. With a great group of girls and our coach, we travelled to Montreal to par-take in five tournaments. The tournaments were part of the Ligue de Volleyball de Montreal, which hosts tournaments from September through to April. This long season was full of early morning practices, road trips to Montreal, exhibition games with the University of Sherbrooke, fundraisers and of course tons of fun to be had by all the girls.
These fans are the greatest

BY ARASH MADANI
SPORTS EDITOR

M att Hehn has a promise for every single Bishop's Gaiters supporter out there. For each of you, whether you are part of the majority who attend the spectacle that has become a Gaiters basketball game this semester, or simply a student who has yet to attend a classic Mitchell Gymnasium thriller.

"We all feel like we owe the fans something, and that's a win. You know what? I'm guaranteeing a win Thursday," said the senior, who's trademark white headband and colourful on-court mannerisms makes him the player that gets some of the biggest roars from the nuts standing in the students section. "Yeah, I'm guaranteeing a win. Just watch, we'll do it."

And so with that, Hehn is all but assuring the fact that the purple will be playoff bound come March, when the madness all begins. Tonight at Mitchell Gymnasium, Bishop's hosts its biggest double-dip of the season. Bar none. In town are the Concordia Stingers, who at 6-5 are owners of second place in the women's ranks and the men's club (3-10) is still very much in the hunt due to poor road play of a B.U. squad that has been extremely impressive at home this season.

Why? One big reason is you, down to the last screaming fan that makes Bishop's basketball magic on Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Do you really know how appreciated you are? The near-thousand staunch Gaiters supporters who come to Mitchell Gymnasium on those nights and turn the stadium into the happiest place on earth?

Let the Bishop's Gaiters tell you.

"Our fans are the greatest," says Hehn, by far one of the biggest favourites of the rowdies, who always gets the crazies going with his ridiculous dances after baskets and arm-swooping 'raise the noise' tactics. "By far the greatest we have ever had and the greatest I've ever seen. I ask my friends who play at other schools what the crowds are like (at universities throughout Ontario) and they're like it's a couple of hundred people and it's really dead."

What we have here, is a party, a real experience. Sometimes I wish I was in there with them to see what it was like."

What is happening right now inside the home barn of the Gaiters hoops squad brings back memories of the glory days of yesterday. When B.U. basketball would be the heavyweight on the national hoops scene. Of three straight conference titles, three consecutive appearances in the Canadian championships. That was an era when the gym would be packed to the roof, complete with a sell-out crowd including fans lining up four rows deep on the track overlooking the playing floor.

You'd think the way the devoted fans return week in and week out that an appearance at the Final Eight in Halifax was around the corner. Yet the men's ball club is 2-9 and in dire need of a victory tonight against the improving Stingers, in their own home gym, to help gain a stranglehold on the final post-season berth in the Quebec University basketball division.

"We keep it close every week at home and that's why it hurts to lose like this," said a dejected Paul Stephens, the reserve wing man who is playing his best basketball of his career over the last couple of weeks, after a heartbreaking 73-58 setback at the hands of the McGill Redmen, the nation's fifth ranked team, last Thursday. "The huge crowds keep coming out and I think it's the best thing ever."

"I'm guaranteeing a win over Concordia (tonight). This one is for the fans."

-Gaiter forward Matt Hehn

Women's Lacrosse

The women's lacrosse team had a great second year as a club team. Between practices the girls could be seen selling baked goods, mittens, and themselves to raise money for the year's expenses. With experience under their belts the team is getting known, not only for their keen fashion sense and willingness to put themselves up for sale as slaves, but also for their hard work and mad skills. Special thanks to a fantastic coach Lonnie for all her hard work.

From the depths of International Centre couches ... or from the depth of trusty Lion pitchers ... the members of SATA met once a week to discuss current events, debate political issues and sometimes even veer off into sobering philosophical questions. One of the biggest mysteries was usually what the heck our acronym stood for in the first place, so here it is, once and for all:

STOP because every week it kept us from getting swallowed by our hectic lives in the Bishop’s Bubble.

ASK because in our “educate not intimidate” atmosphere, people from all levels of awareness were more than welcome and encouraged to call a time-out for explanations.

THINK because we all learned something each week thanks to people with random expertise, or who went to research something that came up last week so that we could now go over it together.

ACT because out of recognition that there are things that people need to know, and that some just don’t feel ready to ask the basic questions, we organized and faculty-led session that taught a crowd of 80+ interested students about the Israel-Palestine issue from square one.

You are looking at a photo from one meeting; every week brought loyal regulars as well as new faces. Thanks to every one who came out (once or often, talking or listening), and thanks to the faculty, administration and members of the Bishop’s Corporation for their support. Kudos especially to the group of die-hard SATAers who were always ready to lend a hand with organization, and always eager to get going every week. This has been the first year of SATA’s existence, and the group has been very well received by the Bishop’s community. Next year we hope to get together some more events for the general student body, but above all we plan to continue our relaxed and inclusive approach to true higher learning.

Bishop's Chamilian Christian Ministry is a club that is dedicated to service and teaching. We believe that Jesus is the son of God and are committed to deepening our relationship with Him. One of Jesus' most important messages was to love God and above all, our neighbor as ourselves. This year on campus, we demonstrated this by collecting clothes for needy families, raising money through a 30 hour famine, and putting on a series of dinners for students who could not go home for the holidays. We also offer Bible studies and "Church in the Pub" for people who would like to know more about what Christianity is really all about. Life is so much more than just working, getting paid and having fun. Our aim is to let people know that Jesus is real and alive.

Student Safety Services 2001-2002

Yet another fantastic year has rolled by at Bishop’s. And yet another amazing team of Student Safety Services staff deserves a big thank you - they have done an outstanding job of taking care of the BU and CRC communities over the 2001-2002 academic year. As Marshals at a variety of campus events, they were the ones who kept the fun safe and enjoyable for all. Student Patrol has never been so helpful and proactive - around campus, out on the streets of Lennoxville and in Safe Haven they have truly made a difference in the lives of many individuals.

I must take this opportunity, on behalf of the staff, to thank all those that have worked alongside us over the year. To the SRC executive, Joy Chandler, Wendy Wark, Bruce Stevenson, Bert Noel, Dan Major and the other officers of Bishop’s Security as well as many others – thank you for your support! We would never have been as effective without your help and encouragement!

To “my” staff, thank you for putting in 100%. You went above and beyond in so many ways. It has been an absolute pleasure to work with such a committed team of individuals desiring to get involved and lend a hand. I know that I leave Student Safety in good hands and that next year you will continue to ensure that the Bishop’s Experience remains positive for everyone. Thanks again for a great year! Here’s to 2002-2003!

Cheers!

If a picture can tell a thousand words I hope this book speaks volumes and captures a small piece of your Bishop’s experience. If I’ve learned one thing at University it’s that what you give is what you get. This is my small way of giving back to a place that has provided me with enough memories, laughter and friends to last a lifetime. Thank you so much to everybody who helped; this book would not exist without you all. There are too many of you to name but no help has gone unappreciated. From submitting pictures, designing pages, sorting through pictures, typing grad write ups, and putting up with my disorganization, and complaints all prove what an incredible community exists within this small bubble. College days will linger ever in my heart as I hope they will in yours. I wish you all success and happiness in all your future endeavors, we’ve succeeded already in making it this far.

Cheers!

Bishop's rocks the house at UBG 2002 and brings back 'creativity trophy'. A recap from four days at the happiest place on earth

By Raina DeLisa

ON ASSIGNMENT IN TORONTO

Last Monday morning was a challenging one for the thirty-seven Bishop's Undergraduate Business Games delegates. The team spent an extended weekend, from Thursday Jan. 17 to Sunday Jan. 20, competing against 21 other universities from across Canada in spirit, athletic, and game show-like events.

The 11th annual event was held on the Eritzle campus at University of Toronto. The daytime activities were extremely disorganized in comparison to last year, Bishop's first time at the Games, when the event was hosted by York University. The team spent hours waiting for buses and instructions on what to do and where to go all weekend. Cory Houle, a member of the Bishop's debating team, said that the U of T organizers were disorganized to the point that he never even played one round of his event. This was the same for the ladder team. This team of three still does not even know what the ladder is or how to play. These teams were misdirected as to where to go for their events and when they did arrive for game time often their opponents were nowhere to be seen and judges and officials were nonexistent. Ladder player Andrew Aucin did not seem to mind missing his event, "I enjoyed the board meetings and the free time I had to network at the campus bar."

The sports teams had better luck than those participating in the indoor activities. Outdoor events included soccer, hockey, and football. The football team, defending UBG champions, was the only B.U. team to make it to the semi-finals. In a grueling game against Concordia, the team lost.

Evening events seemed to go off without hitch. All of the teams participated in theme nights held at nightclubs in downtown Toronto. The theme for Friday night was 'UBG prep school'. The Bishop's team decided to add a twist to this and went as 'UBG med school' and wore outfits to convey a theme of "naughty nurses and virgin doctors" according to Bishop's team president Laurie Dyke. On Saturday night the teams were urged to dress in a theme of their own. This brought teams dressed as Barbie dolls, Wakko, cross-dressers, and cowboys and girls. Bishop's showed up in leather and bandannas looking like fellow Lemmonville natives, The Hell's Angels.

All of the teams stayed at the same hotel in Mississauga Novotel. It may seem strange that a hotel would agree to host over 800 universities students at once and it certainly did prove to be a mistake. On Saturday night, the fire alarm sounded at approximately 4:30 a.m. causing the entire building to be evacuated. One hotel manager told a B.U. delegate, "this was a bad decision and there are going to be some lost jobs here". There were a number of damages to the hotel. On a number of the floors occupied by UBG delegates there were damages that the team will have to pay for. Each school has been billed for approximately $250 dollars. Dyke said that the Bishop's team will likely have another fundraising night at the Mayson to pay for the damages.

The total cost of attending UBG for the Bishop's team was $7,000. To offset expenses, the team sought corporate sponsorship and did a few fundraising events. Bishop's was not overly successful in soliciting sponsorship. Members of the executive cite the events of Sept. 11 as having an impact on their efforts.

B.U. team member Gillian Dinning said that it is easier for larger schools to get sponsorship because of their location. She observed, "The schools from the major cities came in scopied-up outfits. One reason is that some of the teams also attend the Western Business Games. The teams that wear their clothing to more than one event increase the exposure for the sponsorship. Corporate dollars may have been hard to come by for the B.U. squad but they received support from the Bishop's University Commerce Society (BUCS), the Williams School of Business and Economics, and the SRC.

When asked if helping out the UBG team was a worthwhile investment SRC director of finance and operations said, "Yes, we supported a student initiative and helped facilitate an opportunity for social interaction.

The disorganization of the event was frustrating for all involved. Incidents such as a bus driver, hired by the University organizing committee, getting into an accident with a bus full of students and subsequent-ly being arrested for drinking-and-driving at 11 a.m. Saturday added to the stress of the events.

But, with hard work and some theft from the team's terrace, Bishop's came home with the creativity trophy — one of only three pieces of hardware given out on the weekend. It was a memorable moment for the B.U. team, which did not win any events, yet still managed to be the team that no other school will soon forget.

THE GAITER REVUE

Wednesday, Feb. 13th at 8 p.m. in Centennial Theatre
Proceeds to: BU Refugee Sponsorship and Frontier College
First ever Gaiter Revue gets two thumbs up

BY SARAH ZINCK

This year Hypothermania, Bishop's very own winter carnival, held a unique show on the Wednesday evening of celebrations. The Gaiter Revue, a variety show featuring the exceptional talent that our Bishop's community has to offer, made its debut with astounding success.

With a star-studded line-up, a fantastic technical crew, many dedicated individuals, and two daring MCs, it wasn't hard for the eleven-act show to keep the audience laughing.

Lisa McRae, a business professor here at Bishop's, was able to gather enough support and initiative this year to finally put this idea into action. Many universities across Canada have some form of revue that they put together every year, and hopefully this will not be the first and last for Bishop's.

In November of last year McRae sent out letters to every group, club and team here in the Bishop's community, unfortunately there was very little support in return. In January individual contact was made to several of the groups, and this time the feedback was much more positive, and soon the Revue was in motion.

Twelve groups gave their word and began their preparations for the event, and the volunteers began putting the show together. Unfortunately one act had to drop out at the last minute, but according to McRae, the remaining eleven acts seemed to have put together a perfect show.

All proceeds of the Revue went towards Bishop's/Champlain Refugee Sponsorship Program and Frontier College; these were the funds of choice due to their 'undeniable support throughout the campus,' stated McRae.

Various corners of the Bishop's community were represented at the variety show.

The first act included the University Singers performing Ain't no Mountain High Enough, a fashion show put on by the RAS, a unique interpretation of Yesterday by BUCS, the Women's Soccer Team and their Morning Routine, Tim Straka performing a tribute to 9/11, and the Beta Fraternity giving the audience a brief life lesson.

The intermission, which catered to thirsty Bishop's students by serving beer, the chemistry club showed us their magic, Frontier College gave a tribute to literacy, SRC President Dave Millard and VP external Charles Godbout introduced their new product now being sold through the SRC, B.U. faculty offered a lecture on love, UBG and their surprise was next and finally the B.U. football team stole the show with their Hollywood Hopefuls.

Although all the acts were entertaining in themselves, the amusing interludes, care of Mike Mahoney and Geoff Smith, the MCs, really pulled the show together.

The costumes ranged from kilts to boxer shorts, and the acts included singing, Bishop's fashion, brave chemical experiments and a rather courageous interpretation of River Dance.

A very wide variety of talent was displayed to an audience amazed by the voices of the University Singers and who ended up cheering and clapping along to Bon Jovi.

The lighting crew for the show deserves a hand for doing such a fantastic job, as do the many other volunteers and individuals who helped put the show together.

The Gaiter Revue committee should all be congratulated on a job well done.

McRae hopes that the Revue will continue long into the future of the Bishop's winter carnival. The size of the show this year was absolutely perfect and with such a successful start, it can only grow larger.

Perhaps the SRC will head up the committee next year," she suggested. "Next year I would try to put the Revue on the Thursday night during the week of winter carnival and make sure there was a party for the cast and crew afterwards."

In the future, it should be ensured that the SRC — or another group — does take on the organization of this event. It would continue to uphold the traditional Bishop's spirit, and show off the wacky talents that our students and professors have to offer.

SPRING BREAK 2002
Bishop's On Break

It was a beautiful day in July.
Judy decided to take a break from her usual routine and venture out into the city. She found a park with a view of the ocean and sat there for a while, watching the waves crash against the shore.

As she was enjoying the moment, she noticed a group of people sitting on the beach. Judy decided to join them and spent the afternoon chatting and sharing stories.

Later in the evening, Judy and her new friends decided to head to a nearby restaurant to enjoy some delicious food and drinks. They had a great time catching up and laughing together.

When the night was over, Judy thanked her new friends for a wonderful evening and headed back home, feeling refreshed and rejuvenated.
It is said that an orphan girl from Bromont knelt in front of it for days, receiving visions on how to make Purple Jesus. Some believe that it protects drunken arch walkers from serious injury, though it allows for the occasional buttock to be ripped open on a bolt because hey, it still has a sense of humour. The Bishop’s=Great graffiti has had a profound effect on everyone who gazes upon it, but what visionary gave us this piece of eternal wisdom?

The story goes that a francophone named Martin went one night in 1994 with some fellow Mackinnonites to spray paint the arches in celebration of the Gaiter’s appearance in the CIAU football semi-final. His English skills being limited, he used a little math and one of the few adjectives he knew to come up with Bishop’s=Great. Whether it was divine inspiration or misunderstood genius we will never know.

Four Bishop’s students kick off spring by taking top prize at international case competition in New Zealand

By Arash Madani

Our Bishop’s students stood on stage in a moment of triumph and celebration inside a massive building in New Zealand, while capturing a moment that will forever be etched in their memory.

“We are the world champion of the nerds,” joked fourth-year Montreal native Charles Godbout. “Or maybe winners of the world nerds championship.”

Not quite. In fact, not at all.

The foursome of Godbout, Frances Lambshhead, Frank Desrosiers and Katherine Makaroff that represented Bishop’s at the seventh annual Network of International Business Schools case competition in Auckland last week, were champions of the university business world.

Bishop’s went through the event, which featured some of the finest undergraduate business and commerce school students on the planet, undefeated. In the semi-finals, after amassing a perfect 3-0 round-robin mark, Bishop’s knocked off Thailand with its recommendations on an e-commerce case (regarding http://www.submarino.com).

Hours later, the students were crowned champs after an impressive analysis on a government agency, outlasting the European Business School out of London, England.

Nerds? No way. Not this group of bright, personable, well-versed students, who are all involved in extra-curricular activities in addition to excelling in the classroom.

Bill Robson, the dean of the Williams School of Business and Economics, had nothing but praise for the way the Bishop’s contingent fared at such a prestigious event. The long-time management and human resources professor joined the team overseas and felt the students truly deserved their second NIBS crown in the last four years.

“Our students, even in close matches, had solid presentation skills and we integrated more between the members of the group,” said Robson, in an interview following an upper-year policy class, where the coach displayed the Reagan Allen memorial trophy to graduating students.

“With our kids talking, they bounced back and forth and were fluid, easy to understand and were innovative in their presentation skills.”

Giving 20-minute reports in the round-robin section after having four hours to prepare on specific cases and then 15 minutes in the playoffs, Bishop’s students delivered when they had to prove which business school was the best in the world-wide case competition.

“I think this says a lot about our business school,” said Lambshhead, who was named the most intimidating speaker in the event. “Our big hope was to qualify for the NIBS competition. It was a big surprise to win.”

At the closing gala dinner Sunday night, after it was announced that Bishop’s had won, Lambshhead embraced Mrs. Allen, whose daughter was a former member of the host school’s NIBS team before passing away in 2000.

Other Bishop’s team members showed thanked the organizing committee for what was a first-class run event.

“It was just awesome. Everything was five-star,” said Desrosiers, who is a human resources major. “It was an incredible experience to win, to see New Zealand, to go sailing, even to go to Eden Park and watch rugby. It was something I’ll never forget.”

Said Makaroff: “We’re back now and we’re really tired, but it was all worth it. Having met so many people and representing our school like that, is something that I’ll always remember.”

Nerds, no way. How about world champions instead.

NOTES: By virtue of winning the competition, Bishop’s will most likely host the 2003 NIBS competition next year. Robson said there is a 90 per cent chance that B.U. will host the NIBS finals. Bishop’s last hosted the event in 1999.
